He began taking flying lessons last week from Wilbur De Grave, instructor of the Pioneer Aviation company school here. As district superintendent, Mr. Mohr has supervision over seven churches, the others being located at Manistique, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls and Iron River. He is also a member of the state executive committee of Seventh Day Adventist churches. (Escanaba Daily Press Photo)

British Seize Bridge Over Suez; Egyptians Slain In Sharp Battle

By FRED J. ZUSY

CARLO, Egypt — (AP) — British and Egyptian troops clashed yesterday along the Suez Canal and the British seized the only bridge crossing it. Two Egyptian soldiers were killed in the fighting.

The Cairo newspaper Al Misri said that by seizing the bridge the British had cut the canal area off from the rest of Egypt. But the Arabic newspaper Al Zaman later said the British had withdrawn from the bridge—called El Ferdan—and that Egyptian troops had resumed guard duty in the area.

News Held Up

Egyptian censors held up news of yesterday's clash for 24 hours.

Today in Cairo, a shouting street mob of 2,000 demonstrated in front of Shepheard's hotel, displaying newspaper front pages carrying pictures of rioting at Ismailia and Port Said. The mob shouted anti-British and anti-western slogans.

A British Army spokesman said the canal area was quiet again last night and today.

It was the second successive day the British had fought with Egyptians. They opened fire Tuesday on rioters and looters at Ismailia, where the Egyptian government said seven were killed. The British said they fired in self-defense.

Links Contingents

The El Ferdan bridge, scene of yesterday's battle, links Africa and Asia. Its eastern end is on the railway to the Holy Land. The bridge site is where the Holy Family reportedly crossed on its flight into Egypt.

The present bridge is a swinging structure that is pulled to the canal side when not in use.

MacArthur Careless With Formosa Facts, President Declares

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today Gen. Douglas MacArthur's charge that his opposition "wrecked the secret plan" to let Formosa fall to the Chinese Reds was not based on fact and the General knew it.

Mr. Truman's comment was in reply to questions at his news conference.

MacArthur made his assertion in a speech to the American Legion convention in Miami yesterday. The General said, too, that the plan also would have given Red China a seat in the United Nations.

Slot Machines In Biloxi, Miss., Get Spotlight

By HENDRIX CHANDLER

BILOXI, Miss. — (AP) — The care-free Mississippi Gold Coast provided the springboard today for a new round of Senate committee investigations into gambling conditions.

Untouched by the light of publicity of the Kefauver committee slot machines and swanky gambling casinos around this tourist and convention center are being given the spotlight now because of their relation to Keesler Air Force base.

Airmen Support City
Keesler's 30,000 airmen and the base's $48,000,000 annual payroll are one of the principal economic supports of the city. The base's population almost equals that of Biloxi itself.

The Mississippi coast has never tried to conceal its gambling. Mayor R. Hart Chinn said in an interview slot machines operated before Keesler Field was established and as far back as he could remember.

Wide-open gambling adherents contend the convention crowds and vacationers pay the freight, pouring their money into the slots and rolling their chips on the green baize table at the night clubs.

No License Fees

But the Rev. G. C. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church, said an estimated 1,500 slot machines in the Biloxi area form a gambling trap to fleece the Keesler airmen of their pay. And he said children are subjected to gambling evils almost from the time they can walk.

The city of Biloxi collects no license fees on the slots, but city hall records show the operators pay about $100,000 annually in regularly assessed fines which go to support the city.

Boys Admit Thefts

HASTINGS — (AP) — Two Middleville youths, Robert Dailey, 17, and Norman Main, 20, Wednesday confessed a series of nine robberies in Barry county since August. They said they burglarized garages, a feed mill and an auto agency.

Moscow Refuses To Help Arrange Truce In Korea

Outlook For Revival Of Cease-Fire Talks Takes Hopeful Turn

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — Efforts to revive Korean truce talks took a hopeful turn today after the United Nations command submitted a compromise security zone proposal.

Communist liaison officers took the suggestion under consideration overnight.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official spokesman for the U. N. command, expressed "cautious optimism."

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior U. N. liaison officer, took an "optimistic view of the situation."

Kinney said the liaison delegations Thursday reached "substantial agreement on one or two points which had been in dispute." But, he cautioned, "We still have several fundamental questions remaining."

Referring to some of these points, Col. Chang Chun San, heading the Red delegation, remarked, "I find very little difference between us."

Chang said his delegation may reply to the new U. N. neutral zone suggestion when the liaison officers meet at 10 a. m., Friday (8 p. m., Thursday, EST).

The new allied proposal would establish a three-mile attack-free radius around Communist truce headquarters at Kaesong and the U. N. advance camp at Munsan.

The Reds wanted to keep the five miles zone which surrounded Kaesong when it was the site of truce talks. They had proposed a similar circle around Munsan.

Kremlin's Note Has Diplomats In U. S. Guessing

Russians Offer To Discuss Tensions

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Moscow has rebuffed a secret U. S. proposal that she act to bring about an armistice in Korea, offering instead to talk over the general causes of east-west tension.

Initial State Department reaction was that this offer was propaganda, but the wording of the Russian note was such as to set off guessing among diplomats as to whether the Kremlin is sincere.

Moscow and the State Department disclosed last night that Ambassador Alan G. Kirk on Oct. 5 made the approach for Soviet intervention to end the deadlock between United Nations negotiators and the Communists.

Incidents Brought Up
Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky gave no direct reply, but he noted that Russia is "not a party to these negotiations."

He also: (1) charged the U. N. command created the cease-fire stalemate with "all kinds of incidents"; (2) supported the North Korean-Chinese position regarding a truce line in the area of the 38th parallel; and (3) offered the Soviet's "full and energetic support" of measures for "the successful conclusion of negotiations."

—success presumably from the Red viewpoint.

Vishinsky also questioned the good faith of assurances from Kirk that the U. S. and its Western Allies are aiming only for defense and have no "aggressive designs" on Russian or any nation.

Not Interested
Vishinsky commented tartly

Chinese Reds Give Up Key Hills But Stiffen At Kumsong

(By The Associated Press)

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — Chinese suddenly abandoned a series of key hills in western Korea to attacking Americans today. But they stiffened against Allies crunching forward toward their Kumsong stronghold in the center.

Troops of the U. S. First Cavalry division overran four hills northwest of Yonchon almost unopposed.

Three Miles Away
The Americans had been fighting for the ridge line for two weeks in one of the bloodiest small actions of the entire United Nations autumn offensive. Chinese deserted the western hills during the night after beating off a series of flame-throwing attacks Wednesday.

In the center of the Korean front Allied troops ran into stiff fighting before capturing two key hills south and southwest of Kumsong.

American and South Korean troops advancing along a 22 mile front toward Kumsong were within three miles of the town.

In rugged mountains to the east Allied infantrymen attacked a towering, craggy peak. Their morning assault was unsuccessful.

South Korean troops on the east coast beat off two brief Red counterattacks south of Kosong with the help of the U. S. Destroyer Weller.

Battleship Kills 500

The Navy reported the battleship New Jersey, flagship of the Seventh fleet, killed more than 500 Reds Wednesday while supporting Allied troops. The battleship sent 150 tons of high explosives hurtling from its big guns against Red concentrations 18 miles inland.

A belated naval report told of a brief battle Tuesday between Red shore guns at the east coast port of Wonsan and besieging warships. Before the Red artillery was silenced, six large caliber salvos straddled the U. S. Destroyer Stormes. The Navy made no mention of damage to the destroyer.

Twenty-two B-29 Superforts rained their big bomb loads on three Red air fields and two other North Korean targets Thursday. The air force said Red jets made no attempt to challenge them.

Congress Seeking New Compromise For Tax Increase

WASHINGTON — (AP) — House-Senate conferees agreed today on a new compromise $5,700,000,000 tax bill. The proposed individual income tax increases are slightly smaller than in the bill turned down by the House earlier this week.

Half a dozen other minor changes were made, but the new bill remained in most details essentially the same as the measure the House rejected.

The Senate will vote first on the new bill and action is possible late today.

Norton Of Escanaba Elected Chairman Of Aeronautics Board

LANSING — (AP) — H. J. Norton of Escanaba was elected chairman of the state board of aeronautics yesterday to succeed Cass S. Hough of Plymouth, who was not reappointed.

Norton was appointed to the commission this summer by Governor Williams.

The commission elected John P. McElroy of Detroit vice-chairman.

Hod Carriers Pay Top Officer $30,000

CHICAGO — (AP) — Two top officers of the AFL International Hod Carriers Building and Common Laborers Union were voted pay raises of $18,000 a year each yesterday.

The salary boosts of more than 100 per cent were approved by delegates to the union's convention. The annual pay of Joseph V. Moreschi, Chicago, was increased from $12,000 to $30,000, and that of Peter Fosco, Chicago, secretary-treasurer from $10,000 to $28,000 a year.

Byers left his state job last May and was succeeded by John Ball of Detroit. Ball left last month to join a Washington advertising agency.

Byers first went with the department in 1949 and served provisionally until his leave of absence. He took a civil service examination for the job in June and placed highest in his classification, the department said.

His job with the department is to sell Michigan locations to industrial prospects outside the state.

Wiles said it was about 6:50 p. m. PST, (9:50 p. m. EST) when the plane circled his station at an altitude of about 50 feet, veered west and narrowly missed 130,000 volt power lines. Then, he related, the plane roared at full throttle toward the mountain in an apparent attempt to gain altitude, crashing into the rocks at the 2,000-foot level.

Kemano, where the flight originated, is the site of the Aluminum Company of Canada development in northern British Columbia. Nanaimo is 30 miles west of Vancouver, across Georgia Strait, and the plane apparently was off course on its regularly scheduled run.

The accident was witnessed by Keith Price, operator of a power station near this city, which is 150 miles northwest of Seattle.

The victims were 30 miles from their destination at Vancouver, B. C., nearing the end of a south-bound 400 mile flight from Kemano, when the twin-engine craft hit the rocky side of 5,000 foot Mount Benson. All those aboard except the three crew members were believed to be loggers and construction workers.

The accident was witnessed by Keith Price, operator of a power station near this city, which is 150 miles northwest of Seattle.

John McDonough, 47, Drowns In Bay De Noc

John McDonough, 47, of 236 Lake Shore Drive, was drowned in Little Bay de Noc near the Escanaba Yacht harbor about 12:30 o'clock this noon when he fell from a rowboat while hunting with his brother, James McDonough, of the same address.

James McDonough said that his brother reached over the boat, apparently to pick something out of the water, and he fell into the bay. When John fell overboard, one of the oars drifted away.

James said, and the brother was unable to maneuver the boat into position to save John.

James McDonough has an injured leg and was wearing a cast on the leg, which increased the difficulty in maneuvering the small boat to assist the drowning man. John McDonough was wearing heavy boots, James said.

James McDonough maneuvered the boat into shore and notified the police. The body of John McDonough had not been recovered at 2 p. m. today.

The two brothers had shot a couple ducks and were rowing to pick them up when the mishap occurred.

Train Derailed At Beechwood

IRON RIVER, Mich. — (AP) — Twenty cars of a diesel-powered 109-car iron ore train left the rails today and tore up 250 feet of track on the Northwestern line.

No one was hurt in the accident which occurred at Beechwood, 10 miles northwest of here.

Two wrecking trains from Escanaba and Ashland, Wis., were slowly untangling the pile-up which spilled 1,000 tons of Goebie range ore bound for the Escanaba docks.

It was expected it would take until late Friday to clear away the ore and twisted cars. One hundred men were working in relays on the job.

This was the third derailment of an ore train in this vicinity within the past month. Cause of today's accident was not immediately determined.

Mailman And Florist Die In Plane Plunge Near Almont, Mich.

ALMONT, Mich. — (AP) — A Metamora mail carrier and an Oxford florist fell to their deaths in an airplane which crashed two miles west of the Trott airport here yesterday.

The victims were Lawrence Laur, 43, the mail carrier, and a Civil Air Patrol pilot, and Robert Unger, 50, the florist.

The plane was a two-seater Fairchild. They had been on a pleasure jaunt.

Witnesses said the plane apparently was coming in for a landing when it lost flying speed and crashed.

Michigamme River Project Approved

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has issued a 50-year license to Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., Appleton, Wis., for the proposed Hemlock Falls hydro-electric project on the Michigamme river in Iron County, Mich. The license was given on condition that the project be completed by Dec. 31, 1952.

ZURICH, Switzerland — (AP) — Th Swiss department of justice considered today political asylum pleas from two Yugoslav airline pilots who turned their plane—and 22 passengers—of an internal Yugoslav route and fled to Switzerland.

The pilots asked refuge for their families, who were aboard the plane.

They landed at Zurich airport yesterday. Swiss police reported one pilot said they could no longer endure "the Communist terror regime in Yugoslavia."

Three other members of the plane crew and all its passengers except the pilots' families said they wanted to return to Yugoslavia. A new pilot was flown in to take them and the fugitive plane home.

The refuge families included the two pilots' wives and two boys, aged 19 and five.

Emergency Session Of Legislature Set For 10 a. m. Tuesday

LANSING — (AP) — Legislation to ban rifles in southern Michigan and to bring private banks under state control will be considered by the state legislature on Tuesday.

Governor Williams called the lawmakers into an emergency 10 a. m. session.

He was expected to recommend stop gap legislation on the deer rifles to placate farmers who bitterly protested the conservation commission's refusal to retain the ban.

The administration bill was expected to propose enacting into law the commission regulation which in 1948, 1949 and 1950 limited deer hunting below Highway M-21 to shotguns only.

Williams urged that the problem be reopened at next January's regular legislative session.

"Our farm people are genuinely concerned with the potential danger to their families and property," Williams wrote the legislators, "in the event that rifles are used in the more populous rural areas of the state."

"To protest against the threatened use of rifles, a large segment of that group has posted their lands against small game hunting and that action in turn has disturbed the sportsmen."

Consideration of the banking bill was recommended by the "little legislature" (emergency appropriations commission). It stemmed from failure of a private bank at West Branch this summer.

St. Patrick Church Will Observe Golden Jubilee

Fr. Hartnett Will Give Lecture

The Rev. Fr. Robert Clinton Hartnett, S. J., editor-in-chief of America, national Catholic weekly review, will come to Escanaba to participate in the golden jubilee celebration of St. Patrick church, Rev. Fr. Martin B. Melican, pastor, announced today.

Fr. Hartnett will give a lecture at St. Patrick's church at 8 Thursday evening, Oct. 25. His topic will be: "What the Church Expects from the Laity." The general public is invited to attend.

Bishop Will Preach

The Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, D. D., bishop of the Marquette diocese, will deliver the jubilee sermon at the pontifical mass at St. Patrick church at 11:30 Sunday morning, Oct. 28.

The new St. Patrick school will be blessed and dedicated at 3:30 in the afternoon, with Rev. Fr. Joseph Dunleavy delivering the sermon. A banquet will be held at St. Patrick's hall Sunday evening.

The celebration will end on Tuesday night, Oct. 30, when the golden jubilee festival will be held.

Norway Man Runs Into C&NW Engine

MENOMINEE—Joseph Bourgeois, of Norway, Mich., escaped injury but the side of his car was damaged when it collided with a Chicago & North Western Railway "400" streamliner locomotive at 10th (Ogden) avenue and 7th street at 9:45 p. m. Tuesday.

Bourgeois was driving east on 10th avenue and failed to observe the train, which was pulling out from the station. A flagman was on duty at the crossing, but was on the other side of the tracks after signalling traffic to stop as the train started from the station.

Bourgeois said he did not see the train. He said he reduced speed at the intersection because there were car lights on each side on 7th street, but both were stopped and he proceeded.

The front of the engine hit the car broadside, spinning it around. He is employed as a terrazzo installer at the St. Joseph - Lloyd hospital.

Tourist Council To Discuss Delta Road Improvement Plans

Possible road improvement programs in Delta county will be discussed by the Delta County Tourist Council at a meeting to be held Monday at 8 p. m. in Eagles club rooms in Escanaba.

Girl Scouting Enjoys Growth

3,000 Are Served In Seven Years

Seven years ago this month of October, the Girl Scouts of Delta County had a re-birth. Since that time more than 3,000 girls have had a successful, instructive, happy experience in Scouting.

Girl Scouting is a way of life for these girls and their leaders. They learn to be kind, obedient, and thrifty; they learn to be proficient homemakers; they acquire skills in out-of-door activities; they know something of arts and crafts, music, and dancing.

The need of serving their community is ever present with them. The need to be tolerant and understanding of and with all races, creeds and colors becomes part of their thinking.

Well-Rounded Program

International problems and friendships are woven into the pattern of Scouting and the girls broaden their horizon to include all Scouts in all countries. In other words, Girl Scouting makes for a balanced, temperate, well-rounded girl and citizen.

At the present time there are 366 girls registered in Brownie, Intermediate, and Senior Scouting throughout Delta county. Helping these girls are 26 leaders, 16 assistant leaders, and 49 troop committee members, as well as the Delta county officers.

The Delta county officers are: Miss Nell Fleming, Nahma, president; Mrs. Clyde McGonagle, Gladstone, secretary; Mrs. Leroy Hamilton, Gladstone, treasurer; Mrs. John Groop, Escanaba, registrar; Mrs. Sherman Gierke, Fayette, organization; Mrs. E. A. D'Amour, Gladstone, program; Mrs. O. S. Hult, Gladstone, publicity; Mrs. Clyde McGonagle, Gladstone, Juliette Loewe; Mrs. Ray Gazley, Gladstone, camp.

The sponsoring organizations are many. Such organizations as the Escanaba and Gladstone Rotary clubs, The Escanaba Kiwanis, the Escanaba and Gladstone Lions, the Newcomers' Club of Escanaba, the DAV, the V.F.W., the Bay de Noc Lumber Co., of Nahma, the Gladstone Yacht club, the Franklin P.T.A., the Escanaba Catholic Guild, the Gladstone Child Welfare club, the Study club and the Coterie of Gladstone, and the Dorcas society all stand ready to give their help and cooperations when needed by the troop under their sponsorship.

Camping is one of the important fields of interest for the girls. Last summer, as well as six previous summers, the Delta County Council sponsored a Day Camp at Bunker Hill, near the Marble Athletic Field in Gladstone. The 112 girls attending had two weeks of glorious camping experiences. With the help of 14 Senior Scouts, who acted as program aides, the Intermediates and Brownies perfected their cooking, nature, and craft skills. The camp was under the able direction of Mrs. Ray Gazley of Gladstone.

Timber Trail, the established Girl Scout Camp in this area, saw many Delta county scouts as campers. Here the emphasis is on waterfront activities, as well as out-of-door skills.

School Building Is Discussed By Board

Escanaba's proposed school building program was discussed last night by the board of education in special session, with all members present.

Financing, school building sites, and other matters in connection with the program were studied by the board. Further meetings will be held and discussions with the boards advisory council are scheduled.

Discussion ranged from plans for a community college and new senior high school, to grade school replacement and a special education building for handicapped children.

The advisability of an advisory council for the community college program was considered, with suggested representation from Delta county communities.

Weed Killer Found; It's Fussy Beetle

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—A type of strictly vegetarian beetle is helping destroy a noxious range-damaging weed found north of the Salmon River.

The weed—called goatweed, St. Johnswort or Klamath, depending on the section of the country—has crowded out desirable plants on two million acres of western grazing land.

The beetles are fussy too. Imported from California via Australia, they devour all the goatweed—and only goatweed—in sight and then conveniently lie down and die.

OPS To Hold Food And Slaughterers Clinics

A three-man team from the Grand Rapids District Office of Price Stabilization will conduct clinics beginning next week in six Upper Peninsula Cities, it was announced today by Everett J. Davis, District OPS Director. Emphasis will be placed on slaughtering and retail meat regulations, but pricing problems of every type of business will also be dealt with in special conferences and question periods.

The schedule of clinics was set up through the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce in each community, Davis said. The Escanaba meeting will be held at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office on Thursday, Oct. 25.

The OPS team will be made up of Harold P. Stuart, Chief of the Food Section for the District OPS; John Halpine Jr., Meat Specialist and Slaughter Control Officer, and Harry E. Morse, Deputy District Counsel. Davis indicated he may also accompany the team during part of the tour.

In each city, Stuart and Halpine will conduct an afternoon meeting with slaughterers, to bring them up to date with current beef and pork regulations. Meanwhile, Morse will be available during the afternoon for individual interviews and conferences on pricing problems in any type of business. Arrangements for interviews may be made through the local chambers of commerce.

Evening clinics, in which all three OPS clinics representatives will participate, will be held in five of the cities. In Marquette a morning clinic will be held. These general clinics will be aimed primarily at retail grocers and meat dealers, to clarify recent changes in beef and food regulations, but questions from any type of business will be invited at the close of each session.

Following is the schedule of Upper Peninsula meetings: Wed., Oct. 24, Sault Ste. Marie; Thursday, Oct. 25, Escanaba; Friday, Oct. 26, Marquette; Monday, Oct. 29, Houghton; Tuesday, Oct. 30, Ironwood; and Wednesday, Oct. 31, Iron River.

Popping Stones Spoil Pavement Around Jackson

JACKSON, Mich.—(AP)—A four and a half mile section of the partially completed new US-12 bypass around Jackson is pitted with thousands of small craters—and here's why:

The stone and aggregate used in mixing the concrete, according to Harry Coons, state highway department chief engineer, was full of small "iron stones."

These, he said, swelled when they became wet and popped right out of the concrete, leaving the craters. Some of the pits are as large as a man's hat.

The gravel pit from which the aggregate came, Coons said, has been condemned by the department for further use. It is located near Chelsea, he said.

Coons said that the Jackson county road commission has applied bituminous material patches to the pits. If the holes filled with water and salt and then froze, he said, the whole pavement would be dug up.

The four and a half mile route was built in 1949 and 1950 by Lewis and Frisinger, Ann Arbor contractors, at a cost of $518,798. Coons absolved the contractors of any blame in the crackup, however, since the gravel pit had not been condemned.

Asbestos Uses Are Increasing

Fiber Scare For National Defense

How to increase asbestos imports and domestic asbestos production to keep pace with industrial demand bothers U. S. defense officials.

It's no small problem. The strange rock composed of compressed fibers that men spin into yarn and weave into fireproof and acid-resistant textiles is indispensable in the 20th century. It is a commodity keyed to this age of coal, petroleum, and the split atom—an age of super-hot fire.

Through the century's first five decades, industrial, military, and defense needs have so pyramided asbestos uses that to list them requires a small book. World production of the fiber has quadrupled since 1920, and now approaches the million-tons-a-year mark, says the National Geographic Society. Even so, demand runs ahead of supply.

Misnomer? Asbestos is bound by no fixed chemical formula. It is any of many minerals, usually of high silica content, found in various parts of the earth. Heat, pressure, and eons of time have combined to create the fiber, which, at its best, can be spun and woven almost like silk, wool, or cotton.

Romans used asbestos for funeral shrouds 2,000 years ago. It was they who named, or perhaps misnamed it asbestos, a Greek word meaning "inextinguishable."

To moderns it seems strange that a word of this meaning should describe a fireproof material—until it is explained that the Romans first applied it to lamp wicks made of the woven rock fiber. As long as the lamps had oil, their wicks were asbestos (inextinguishable), holding the flame without being even slowly burned away.

Italy of the 19th century became the "cradle of the asbestos industry," developing paper, textiles, and other materials of the fiber, although on a small scale. Asbestos got relatively nowhere, until very late in that century.

Two dates stand out in asbestos' industrial ascendancy. First was the discovery in 1877 at Thetford in southern Quebec, Canada, of the now renowned deposits of serpentine, rich in long-fiber asbestos. The second date is 1906, when the first use of the fiber in brake linings set the tempo for its broad future in the automotive field.

Canada By 80 Miles How boundary treaties of one century may affect international trade of a later era is well illustrated by asbestos. The Thetford deposits were undiscovered and hence had no part in early 19th century diplomacy fixing Uncle Sam's northeast border with Canada a few score miles south of the St. Lawrence River instead of along that natural dividing line.

Today, because of the one-fiftieth sector of Quebec lying south of the St. Lawrence, asbestos is the Province's top-value mineral of commerce. Quebec regularly supplies about two-thirds of the world's asbestos production, and nine-tenths or more of the asbestos used in U. S. industry.

Virtually all the Canadian output comes from colossal open-pit mines at Thetford, Asbestos, Black Lake, and neighboring towns within 80 miles of Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. The region in 1948 turned out 716,769 tons of fiber, processing 15 tons of serpentine for each ton of the asbestos yield.

Near-by Vermont, as well as Arizona, Georgia and a few other states combine to produce as much as one-twelfth of current U. S. asbestos needs. But prospects of discovering really important domestic deposits are poor, geologists say.

In other parts of the world, Soviet Russia and South Africa top the list of asbestos-producing lands.

The odor of a skunk often can be detected at distances of more than a mile.

Public Should Take Keener Interest In School Problems

A problem of great magnitude in America is the maintenance and development of our public educational system. The strength of this country is dependent upon the education of our people.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, one of the great industries of America, is encouraging its employees to take an active interest in the public schools where they live. It wants more of them to serve on school boards, participate in local P. T. A. activities and to take part in citizens' committees to bring schools up to date and to improve the quality of public education. Standard Oil grants company time to its employees for this purpose.

There are 33 million Americans in public schools this year, divided as follows: 24 million in elementary schools, 6½ million in high schools, 2½ millions in colleges and universities. There are insufficient facilities and not enough teachers to meet this tremendous need. School population has doubled in the last half century.

Escanaba's school program is at least as acute as elsewhere in the nation. In many respects our problem is more serious than that of the average city because all of our elementary schools are 50 years old—or more. We are confronted with a rebuilding program of considerable magnitude.

It is more essential now than any other time in our history to acquaint ourselves with the problems of our schools—and to lend a hand in solving these problems.

Reds Have A Reason To Revise Treaty

THE Soviet Union has come up with one of its typical maneuvers on revision of the Italian peace treaty.

The West's primary aim in calling for revision, of course, is to remove present limits on Italy's rearmament so that country can take part more fully in the North Atlantic alliance.

Russia now says it will agree to revision and to Italy's admission to the UN if the Italians withdraw from the North Atlantic Pact and if the West agrees to revision also of the peace treaties with Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania.

Agreement on the first point would defeat the whole purpose of revision. The second is patently absurd, since Moscow long ago "revised" the satellite treaties unilaterally, to suit its own military aims.

The Kremlin really spoke up on the revision issue for just one big reason. For the sake of communism's future in Italy, Russia had to show interest in the improvement of Italy's status as a nation. But no one will be fooled that that interest is genuine.

ELECTRIC POWER (Iron Mountain News)

Plans of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company for the construction of a new dam and power plant on the Michigan river in Mansfield township, Iron county, mark another vital step in the development of electric power looking to the future expansion of industry in this region. It is also another chapter in the exciting saga of electric power, generally, throughout the nation.

Today, the United States produces almost half of all the electric power generated in the world. Power facilities by the end of this year will be 75 per cent more than a decade ago. These facts go a long way to explain the high standard of living in the country and the greatest potentiality of our economy.

The men and women who are responsible for these achievements have every reason to be proud. The officers of Wisconsin Michigan have consistently pushed forward the maximum development of natural resource.

It is good to know, too, that in this field of economic development there has been no visible complacency. Nothing, it appears, has been taken for granted. While adequately serving their clients in various fields, the men behind the nation's generating facilities are constantly on the alert for further developments to meet future needs. Extension of these facilities continues and, although metal shortages are slowing the pace, new construction will go on.

If and when the development of low-grade iron ore throughout the iron ranges of the Upper Peninsula reaches the marketable stage, the power-producers, it appears, will be ready. The goal, as well as power-requirements in other fields of industry, has been well in the forefront of unity planning throughout this region.

Also, we cannot afford to forget that in this period of defense and war production, water-power and electric energy plan an enormous and highly-critical part. It is clear that for these reasons and others, electric power needs will be sharply increased. Whether we are able to focus our efforts upon raising our living standards or are forced to go all out for weapons production, we will need an abundance of electric power.

Obviously, the planners in this department of our economy are well aware of the need.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the legend regarding the wearing of cramp-rings?

A—Cramp-rings were worn by the ancients as a cure for epilepsy. The legend is that the first one was presented to Edward the Confessor by a pilgrim on his return from Jerusalem, its miraculous properties being explained to the king. Hence arose the custom for the successive sovereigns of England each year on Good Friday to bless a number of cramp rings. The ceremony survived to the reign of Queen Mary.

Q—What reef inspired Longfellow's poem, "The Wreck of the Hesperus"?

A—Norman's Reef, one of the hazards faced by Gloucester fishermen.

Two Important Months For City Utilities

THE next two months are critical months for the Escanaba gas and water plant construction projects.

In the case of the water plant, the most important time period is the next month. If weather conditions remain favorable during the month, construction of the filter plant can continue under roof throughout the winter. However, if bad weather arrives before the building can be enclosed, the entire project will have to be closed down until spring. This would mean a delay of about six months in completing the filter plant.

The gas plant construction problem is somewhat different. The building is going up according to schedule. Most of the materials needed for the job are already on hand. The big worry is whether the three big propane storage tanks being manufactured by the Bethlehem Steel company for the City of Escanaba will arrive in December, according to schedule.

Thus far there has been no indication of any substantial delay in the shipment of the three tanks. However, projects of greater urgency in the national defense conceivably could utilize their priority to take the tanks now destined for Escanaba. The result would be further delays in the local gas conversion program.

Of course, city officials are hopeful that their worries will be unfounded and that both projects can go forward to completion within the time schedules allocated to each.

Spend, Spend, Spend May Bring Disaster

RAYMOND MOLEY devoted one of his recent Newsweek columns to Senator Paul Douglas's valiant and almost totally unsuccessful effort to wring a little of the water out of the federal budget. In conclusion he wrote: "It will take more than name calling, phony statistics, and wise-cracks by the president to dissipate the feeling over this country that since people are being forced by higher taxes to practice self-denial, the government should set the example. All though the country there are too many glaring examples of federal extravagance to escape notice. The country is a rich one, but it cannot stand military expenses of the size that will be essential, unless there is economy in non-military spending. Taxes will not suffice, and inflation must be the deadly harvest."

Every proposal to economize has been steamrollered to death in Congress. That is true of the pork-barrel deluxe. It is true of such lesser matters as Senator Douglas's proposal to abolish the old practice of maintaining, at the taxpayers' expense, a free barber shop for senators. The number of congressional voices which have been raised against waste are pitifully few, and can hardly be heard above the roaring "Spend, spend, spend; tax, tax, tax" chorus.

If there is any better way to destroy a country from within than to countenance waste, extravagance and corruption in government, no one has thought of it. The people are being bled white by taxes now, and the incentive to work, to save, and to achieve is being destroyed. If we keep on going in the present direction there can be only one end—and that is national bankruptcy and national ruin. It happened to great empires of past times. It can happen here.

Too many boys grow wild, says a police judge. Not if they are home-raised.

His Pockets

By Gordon Martin

In the pockets of a boy there are some marvels to behold, and he treasures them as if each one were made of solid gold. Though they have but little value, if converted into cash, he can rightly be insulted should you hint his things are trash. For each item that he lugs around bespeaks a bit of joy, in that world so full of wonder for an active, growing boy.

There's a piece of string, a marble, and a rusty key for skates, and a clipping from the paper which reports the circus dates. Then for a strip of rawhide leather and a heavy rubber band, which is power for a slingshot which he long ago had planned. And, of course, there is his jack-knife, and it tells a story too, for to him each nick in every blade recalls the past anew.

Then a little metal box that holds a battered fishin' hook, and a whistle that is whistled from the willows by the brook. Why, a feller has to have his pockets full of lots of stuff, to be ready for some tradin' if they offer him enough. And whenever you are privileged to see his keepsakes dear, you cannot but live again those boyhood days of yesterday.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There are some interesting backstage reasons why Republican senators are so insistent that Guy Gabrielson resign as chairman of the Republican national committee.

One is a comparison between the two RFC loans obtained by the two chairmen of the Republican and Democratic national committees.

Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle's loan for American Lithofold in St. Louis totaled $565,000—a relatively small amount.

GOP Chairman Gabrielson's loan for Carthage Hydrocol was for $18,500,000—one of the bigger loans granted by the RFC.

Gabrielson drew a salary and fees totaling $201,000 from Carthage Hydrocol during the period that he was either Republican national committeeman from New Jersey or Republican national chairman. He has been president of Carthage Hydrocol since April 26, 1946, and did not resign after he became national chairman.

Boyle claimed he received a fee of only $1,250 from American Lithofold, though upon becoming Democratic chairman he sold his legal practice to his partner, Max Siskind, who paid him in annual installments.

The Democrats, many Republicans feel, could score some points on this comparison during a campaign.

Actually, the RFC was established for the purpose of helping companies which could not obtain loans from private banks, and American Lithofold might have been in that category. However, it was not so much the RFC loan as the way American Lithofold wangled huge printing orders from the government and paid government officials on the side to get those orders that made the public hold its nose.

BLUE-CHIP BACKERS

But what worries Republican senators about the Gabrielson loan is that Carthage Hydrocol appeared not to have needed a loan at all. Its owners include some of the most powerful companies in the U. S. A., with top credit ratings, and the ability to borrow millions from the banks, insurance companies, or the public.

Instead they used politics to get an RFC loan of $18,500,000. They retained Gabrielson, then a rising figure in the Republican party, just at a time when the Republicans were nearing their peak power in the 1946 election and appeared sure winners of the presidency in 1948.

Carthage Hydrocol was organized to make gasoline out of methane gas, which is the dry part of natural gas and which never before has been used for gasoline. However, the experiment, after four years operation near Brownsville, Texas, is reported unsuccessful and GOP leaders now fear a Democratic charge that the blue-chip backers of the concern are trying to let Uncle Sam share in their loss—through the RFC.

Chief backer of Carthage Hydrocol is the Texas company, one of the largest oil companies in the world with gilt-edge credit. Another owner is United Gas, a holding company controlled by Electric Bond and Share, one of the biggest power companies in the world.

Another owner is Stone and Webster, hitherto never known to have been hard up for cash. Other owners are the Niagara Share company, the Forest Oil Corp., La-Gloria Corp., the Chicago Corp., Newmont Mining (a J. P. Morgan concern), Western Natural Gas, and White, Weld, and Co., the Boston bankers.

Another backer is Henry L. Shattuck, Boston blue-blood financial leader; Robert Winthrop, Boston banker and insurance mogul; William A. Coolidge, another blue-chip banker; and N. C. McGowan, one of the biggest gasmen in the business.

The amazing thing is that this group, with unlimited resources, not only wangled an RFC loan, but when the loan's first installment was due, wanted to postpone payment. It was last month, when the first $250,000 was due to be repaid the RFC, that Chairman Gabrielson approached Stuart Symington and asked for a postponement. Later, when Symington demurred, the installment was paid, but this postponement move left Gabrielson open to a possible charge that his blue-chip backers wanted to let Uncle Sam hold the bag.

These are some of the background factors which have caused GOP leaders to demand the ousting of genial Guy Gabrielson.

British Are Sick Of Socialism; Labor Regime Fighting For Life

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—British socialism is fighting for its life against heavy odds.

With the approach of the general election set for Oct. 25, there are strong indications that many Britons who voted for the Labor government in 1945 and 1950 may be in a mood to say "No" to all further "socialist experiments."

Winston Churchill has described this as the most crucial election of all time. So has Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison for the Socialists.

Labor's chief especially realize that much more is at stake than Britain's welfare state. A Socialist defeat on Oct. 25 will inevitably promote a swing to the right throughout Europe.

The British brand of moderate democratic socialism—as opposed to the Communist slave-state and Stalin's dictatorship—may be set back for decades.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee's government was first swept into power in 1945 by the votes of the "little people," who were to be chief beneficiaries of the welfare state. Now it is the "little people"—ironically enough—who may tip the scales in favor of their traditional enemies, the Tories.

The unfolding British electoral drama reflects in a sense the limitations of human nature.

Britain's lower income group, once the backbone of the Labor government, is in "revolt" against the welfare state.

Essentially, it is a revolt of the small shopkeeper, white collar worker, and the housewife against six years of rationing, inflation, the housing shortage, the all-devouring purchase tax and other "hidden" taxes—against the austerity and drudgery of the welfare state.

"In 1945, man, we'd something to fight for. We were fighting for socialism, for a better life," a textile worker told me in Manchester. "But what are we fighting for now? More nationalization? Haven't we had enough of it?"

Manchester, once strongly pro-Labor, is a key to Britain's industrial northwest which will be one of the main political battlefields in the coming general election.

The British common man was promised by the Labor government "socialism in our time." He would have settled for a bigger meat ration, more butter, eggs and other "capitalist luxuries."

Seven years after the war the long-suffering Briton still gets a weekly ration of two eggs.

Now he is told by Aneurin Bevan, leftist enant terrible of British socialism, that he must tighten his belt again—all in the name of a dim socialist utopia he never fully understood.

But the "little people" of Britain (let alone the overtaxed, "disinherited" middle class) are tired of the welfare state. They are also tired of "pressing" world issues. All they want is a breathing spell from austerity, rationing, "utility" clothes, economic regimentation.

No sooner were the British ejected under the threat of force from the Abadan oil refinery in Iran than the Conservatives raised the cry of "Britain's humiliation."

The complete withdrawal from

Abadan is a political, economic and strategic defeat," said Anthony Eden, Winston Churchill's 54-year-old "young man" and white-haired boy of British Conservatism. "Its consequences are so far reaching that it is not easy to measure them at this time."

In protest against the welfare state, the laconic Briton has even become vocal and eloquent. Everywhere worried or irate citizens heatedly debate six years of Labor rule. Every pub, restaurant, worker's canteen, butcher shop or barber shop—wherever free English men and women gather—has been turned into a public forum, an expanded Hyde Park.

Britons as a rule are critical, if not disdainful, of the American type of unrestrained, free-for-all political campaign. But they, too, are now giving vent to their resentments and pent-up emotions.

Though the British may not like it, their electoral campaign resembles closely a typical U. S. election.

None of the trimmings are missing—ballyhoo, mudslinging, character assassination as well as the extravagant (though obviously false promises) made both by the Conservatives and Labor.

Railroading On Six Continents Plagued By Gauges Of Track

The tedious business of transshipping over railroad lines of varying track gauge is virtually unknown in America north of the Rio Grande. It nevertheless continues to complicate rail transportation at many places on six continents.

Pointing up this fact, the National Geographic Society notes, is an old idea being tried anew on the Pyrenees-walled frontier between France and Spain.

There, a new-type railroad-car axle adjustable to variations in track width has recently come into use. Successful in its first tests, this French invention makes possible the transfer of cars from French tracks of standard gauge (4 feet, 8½ inches) to the broad-gauge Spanish tracks (5 feet, 6 inches), and vice versa. Expensive and time-consuming unloading and reloading are eliminated.

Gauges by the Score
Standard gauge has earned the right to be so called, since it is now all but universal in the United States and Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. It is found on every continent except rail-less Antarctica. It prevails in Soviet-satellite countries of eastern Europe, where freight moving toward Moscow must be trans-shipped on Russian rails of five foot gauge.

The odd width of the standard gauge came about, records show, because European rail wagons of the 17th century had wheels set five feet apart and rolled on flanged tracks. Transfer of the flange from rail to wheel produced the track gauge of 4 feet, 8½ inches.

Railroads of today employ a score of different gauges ranging from less than two feet up to 5½ feet as in Spain. Gauges of 3 to 3½ feet prevail in many mountainous regions where lighter trains for steeper-than-average grades are desirable.

Spain is a notable exception to this rule, its broad-gauge rails seen in Britain in many years. In no other election was the middle-of-the-road voter so aware of the issues at stake.

In protest against the welfare state, the laconic Briton has even become vocal and eloquent. Everywhere worried or irate citizens heatedly debate six years of Labor rule. Every pub, restaurant, worker's canteen, butcher shop or barber shop—wherever free English men and women gather—has been turned into a public forum, an expanded Hyde Park.

Britons as a rule are critical, if not disdainful, of the American type of unrestrained, free-for-all political campaign. But they, too, are now giving vent to their resentments and pent-up emotions.

Though the British may not like it, their electoral campaign resembles closely a typical U. S. election.

None of the trimmings are missing—ballyhoo, mudslinging, character assassination as well as the extravagant (though obviously false promises) made both by the Conservatives and Labor.

To protect themselves growers should obtain age or employment certificates stating the boy or girl employed is 16 years of age or older. These certificates are obtained from local school authorities, he said.

ON THE FARM—Once upon a time many country schools closed when potato picking time rolled around. Now under law they may not close—but attendance does drop as the boys and girls stay home to help with the harvest.

And the law, so far as we can gather, does not prohibit youngsters under 16 helping with the harvest on their parents' farms. But Mr. Hermansen doesn't mention that so we presume they are unemployed in the strict sense of the law.

England Had 7-Foot Road
Chile, stretching for 2,600 miles along the Pacific slope of the Andes Range, has trackage of no less than six widths, including the 2-foot and 5½-foot extremes. Argentina's lines are mostly of 5½-foot gauge, while India, Ceylon, Portugal, and Ireland are among countries with rails laid at or near this maximum present-day width.

In the last century, one could travel from New York to St. Louis over rails of 6-foot spread, and tracks of England's old Great Western Railway were seven feet apart.

Australia has some 27,000 miles of Government-owned rail lines, their use complicated by gauges varying with the states. New South Wales tracks are standard; Victoria's and South Australia's are broad; Queensland's and Western Australia's are narrow. All future rail laying by the Government, however, will stick to standard gauge.

At the railroad station at Port Pirie, South Australia, an intricate track and switching system handles trains on three separate widths of track. The same involved situation holds for stations at Hendaye on the French-Spanish border; at Montreux, Switzerland; at Vaxjo, Sweden; and, doubtless, at other points.

Life in the United States, in the meanwhile, is comparatively simple for the freight-forwarding railroad man. Of 225,000 miles of railroad, less than 1,000 miles is not standard gauge. Most of the off-standard track runs through steeply graded Rocky Mountains country, and measures one yard between rails.

Good Evening...

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR—The word as it is written and the word as it appears in a newspaper are often not the same. These slips that pass are called (for want of a better name) typographical errors, although the responsibility rests with a number of individuals other than the operator of the linotype machine.

One Upper Peninsula daily recently struggled with its datelines and failed. The day was Monday, October 15, 1951. On one page the date was presented as "Tonraw, October 15, 1951" and on the following page it appeared as "Monday, Octobder 15, 1951."

A weekly newspaper a few years ago piled confusion on correction by reporting:

"When we reported last week that Sgt. Smith, who played in the local band before entering service, was an accomplished bungler we meant to say that he is an accomplished burglar. Congratulations to Sgt. Smith!"

THE BETTER STORY—At the office of J. L. Heirman, Delta agricultural agent, we met H. R. Eastman, Marquette, soils conservationist in the U. P. with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In our talk concerning the value of soil conservation, we mentioned the case of the farmer with a plot of commercial beans, planted on a hillside.

For three years the farmer cultivated the plot down the slope into a grassy gully, and for three years the rain carried the fertile top soil into the valley. This year the farmer isn't growing beans or any other crop on that depleted soil.

"That's a better story than anything I could tell you," Eastman said enthusiastically. "That's the story for you!"

We considered this for a moment and decided not to jump to conclusions. Perhaps the man just grew tired of raising beans.

ABOUT NEXT YEAR—Speaking of soil conservation reminds us of game conservation, and this reminds us that we have a request to make to our partridge-hunting readers.

Carl Sawyer of Escanaba tells me that he and others with whom he has talked have found that all of the ruffed grouse they have taken this year are males.

If this is any indication, the hen-less outlook for ruffed grouse is poor in the year ahead, since it is a biological fact that without female partridge there will be no eggs, without eggs there will be no little partridge, and without little partridge an inevitable decline in population.

Therefore, we ask hunters to report to us on their hunting success together with the number of hens taken this season. This will not correct the situation (if it exists) but may throw some light on the mystery of grouse population cycles.

POTATO PICKERS—Thomas A. Hermansen, Marquette, investigation supervisor, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, U. S. Department of Labor, has some advice for potato growers.

Adhere strictly to the Fair Labor Standards Act, he advises, to avoid violations of the Federal child labor laws.

The act prohibits the employment of boys and girls under 16 years in the harvesting of potatoes and other crops during hours school is in session in the district in which they live while so employed—if such crops are shipped in interstate commerce.

To protect themselves growers should obtain age or employment certificates stating the boy or girl employed is 16 years of age or older. These certificates are obtained from local school authorities, he said.

ON THE FARM—Once upon a time many country schools closed when potato picking time rolled around. Now under law they may not close—but attendance does drop as the boys and girls stay home to help with the harvest.

And the law, so far as we can gather, does not prohibit youngsters under 16 helping with the harvest on their parents' farms. But Mr. Hermansen doesn't mention that so we presume they are unemployed in the strict sense of the law.

Take My Word For It... Frank Colby Jr.

READERS' CORNER

Tennah: Why do we use the word "savings" in "savings bank"? Why not "savings bank"?

A "saving bank" would be improper, for it would mean "a bank that saves." A savings bank is one where the savings of the depositors are safeguarded.

Syracuse: I have seen references to the "Anzacs." Who are the "Anzacs"?

A. Anzacs is a word coined from the initials letters of Australian and New Zealand Army Corps. Pronounce it: ANN-zacks.

Words so coined (WAC, Radar, etc.) are called either acronyms or acronyms.

Acrostic is coined from the Greek akros, "tip," plus stichos, "order," and though acrostic can quite properly be used to designate such coinages, it usually is taken to mean "a composition, usually in verse, in which the initial letters of the lines, when taken in order, form a word or words."

Acronyms is a relatively new word. The only dictionary in my library which lists it is the American College (Random House); but, to my mind at least, it is a more accurate representation of the words themselves. It is formed from akros, "tip," plus the Greek onyma, "name"; hence, a name formed from the tip (first letters), of other words.

Another recently coined "name" word which I think most interesting and useful is charactonym. It was introduced by Dr. Thomas Elliott Berry, and is formed from the Greek character, "characteristic," plus onyma, "name." This word is used to designate those fictional characters who are named from some characteristic which they possess—personal trait, vocation, avocation, or the like—such as Mrs. Malaprop ("The Rivals

Identify Body Of Bay Victim

Ellis Osterberg, 52, Drowned Sept. 25

A man's body found floating in Green Bay about 12 miles south of Escanaba was identified last night as that of Ellis Osterberg, 52, of Sister Bay, Wis., who drowned Sept. 25 with a companion at Sister Bay.

Identification was made by Mrs. Alex Tennant Jr., Sister Bay, for whom Osterberg was employed as a cook in the Tennant restaurant.

Osterberg's body was recovered yesterday by Harold Olson, Ford River commercial fisherman, three weeks to the day from the date of the accident in which Osterberg lost his life.

Michael Hardy, 43, Sister Bay, also drowned when the small boat capsized about 400 feet from shore at Sister Bay. His body has not been recovered. A third man in the fishing party clung to the capsized boat and was rescued.

Olson discovered Osterberg's body floating about 4 1/2 miles southeast of Misery Bay off the south bay shore, and about 25 miles north of Sister Bay on the Door county (Wis.) peninsula.

The body was taken to Misery Bay by Olson's fish tug and thence by ambulance to the Anderson funeral home in Escanaba. Mrs. Tennant there identified the body last night.

Osterberg was born May 22, 1899 in Sweden. He was single and had been a resident of Sister Bay for the past two and one-half years. Surviving are his mother in Sweden, one sister, Mrs. Axel Johnson, and one brother, Charles Osterberg, both of Chicago.

Burial will be at Sister Bay following funeral services tentatively scheduled for 2 p. m. Saturday at the Casperson funeral home.

Lecturer Will Discuss The Problem Of China

"The Problem of China" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. James I. Crump, jr. on the University of Michigan series, "The United States in World Affairs", at the Escanaba junior high school a 7:30 Friday evening.

Dr. Crump is serving as an instructor in Chinese at the University of Michigan. He received his education at Columbia college, Harvard and Yale universities.

The lecturer spent three years in counter intelligence, and was assigned to the Office of Secret Services in the China-Burma-India Theater of World War II as interpreter and translator.

Four additional speakers will appear on the series. They will be: Prof. Robert E. Ward, "The Problem of Japan," Oct. 26; John F. Muehl, "The Problem of India," Nov. 2; Nicholas Marbury Efimenko, "The Problem of the Middle East," Nov. 9; and Henry

Red Feather Campaign Now Well Under Way

After an enthusiastic pep session at the Salvation Army hall last night, canvassers in the Delta County Community Chest campaign went to work today to collect their share of the 1951 quota of $20,000.

In the Escanaba campaign, canvassers in the "600" block of Ludington street were the first to report 100 per cent completion of their job, Chairman Nick Chapekis announced.

Persons and organization, who will have charge of the Red Feather drive in the townships, were announced today by Chairman Chapekis as follows:

Western Delta county—Leo Brunelle, chairman; Bark River, Lions club, Lee Sundquist, chairman; Brampton, Gordon Hutter; Escanaba, George Rappette; Cornell, Lions club, Clayton Ford; Wells, Civic club, Bob Weberg; and Ford River, Mrs. Chester Feak and Conter project are Lucille Way, Lucille Thompson, Mrs. Eugene Miron and Mrs. Ted McFadden. LeRoy White is handicraft leader for the boys.

Eastern Delta county — Walter Peters, Rapid River, chairman; Baldwin, Horace Gibbs; Ensign, Edward Olson; Fairbanks, Robert Watchorn; Garden, Victor Borga; Maple Ridge, Lions club, Arne Roine; Masonville, Rev. Wilbert Johnson; Bay de Noc, Peder Pedersen; and Nahma, Rudy Jehn and Dave Phalen.

Sam Ham and Nyal Witham, industrial co-chairmen, completed their solicitation of industrial managements in Delta county today.

Prussian Spirit Not Welcomed Now

BONN, Germany—(AP)—Members of parliament here are planning to eliminate the Prussian spirit from any future German armed force.

Informal discussions are being held between members of leading political parties to draw up a new code that substitutes civil rights and democratic respect for the individual for the bullying methods of the old German army.

The deputies recognize the need for discipline but want to get rid of the haughty officer caste system, brutal punishments and victimization of subordinates who complain of injustice.

Says Education Under Attack

Sherwood Condemns False Propaganda

If education in a free society has any fixed purpose, it is and must be to cultivate open-mindedness, to develop willingness and ability to face facts and reason from them, Burr Sherwood, Iron county school superintendent, said in a talk at the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday evening.

Members of the Jaycees entertained their employers at the dinner meeting.

Sherwood discussed the efforts that are made by various pressure groups to spread their propaganda into the American educational system.

"The end result of propaganda in the schools, whether it takes the form of intimidating teachers, indoctrinating students, or pressuring administrators and school board members, is along different lines," Sherwood said. "If propaganda in the schools succeeds, it will have created closed minds rather than open ones, slogans rather than reason."

Sherwood said that public education in America is currently under the heaviest attack in its history. Educators, he added, recognize better, perhaps, than any other group the inherent tendency of all human agencies to become institutionalized, smug, complacent and resistive to change.

"We need, and we welcome, the help and support of school patrons if our schools are to be kept alive and if they are to perform the tremendous tasks required of them in a dynamic society," Sherwood said.

"But just as sincerely as we welcome constructive criticism, we ardently condemn the destructive tactics of those who by innuendo, conspiracy, half-truths, misleading propaganda, irresponsible criticism, and downright falsehood would weaken or destroy the greatest bulwark to our freedom, free public schools, whatever be their motive or their method."

Mrs. Bonifas Estate To Pay Legatees Over 100%

The estate of Mrs. Catherine Bonifas has been closed and payment of gifts to three residuary legatees will exceed 100 per cent on bequests totaling $1,925,300, according to John A. Lemmer, who has completed his work as administrator of the estate.

Final audit of the estate is now being made by Haskin & Sells, certified public accountants, Chicago.

Mrs. Bonifas, widow of William Bonifas, Escanaba lumberman, died May 25, 1948.

Share In Surplus
Many gifts to the Escanaba community were revealed when the will was opened four days after her death.

Residuary legatees of the estate are the Escanaba board of education, bequeathed a total of $820,000; the diocese of Marquette, $805,000; and the city of Escanaba, named recipient of $300,000 in gifts.

In closing the estate the three residuary legatees will share equally in the surplus, and each will receive approximately $11,000 in addition to the bequests.

$150,000 In Escrow
Personal bequest totaled $91,000 and have previously been paid in full.

Until the estate is completely clear of all possible tax liabilities a total of $150,000 due the three residuary legatees is being held in escrow, with William Warmington of Escanaba the escrow agent.

Clearance on 1951 taxes has been received, and when final tax clearance is obtained the three residuary legatees will be paid amounts held in escrow as follows:

To the board of education $85,000, the Diocese of Marquette $60,000, and the city of Escanaba $25,000.

Gifts To Community
Although not mandatory under terms of the will, Mrs. Bonifas' gifts to the community included bequests for the following:

To the board of education—$500,000 toward construction of a new senior high school; $150,000 for a school for handicapped children; $100,000 for a community college; $50,000 for scholarships; $20,000 for the Bonifas technical school.

To the diocese of Marquette—$600,000 for a Catholic central high school; $100,000 for an old people's home in Escanaba; $50,000 for construction of St. Michael's parish, Marquette; $50,000 for maintenance of St. Joseph's parish, Escanaba; $5,000 for perpetual care of the Bonifas mausoleum.

To the city of Escanaba—$100,000 for recreational facilities for youth; $100,000 for construction of a city hall-court house; $100,000 for a state office building.

Mrs. Henry Ford's Art Objects Sold

NEW YORK—(AP)—The public auction sale of the late Mrs. Henry Ford's household goods brought $18,765 in the first day of bidding yesterday.

The sale of furnishings and art objects from Mrs. Ford's homes at Dearborn, Mich., Richmond Hill, Plantation, Ga., and the fishing lodge near Marquette, Mich., continues for three more days at the Parke-Bernet galleries here.

Bids have come in from throughout the United States and Hawaii. Yesterday an anonymous New York private collector paid $500 for a pair of William IV silver wine coolers and $425 for 12 porcelain dessert plates. Earlier a book sale brought $8,908.

LEADING THE PACK—Other presidential candidates may act coy, but Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson of New York, general overseer of the Church of God, Queens, is already running hard for the office. Bishop Tomlinson, who would like to have General Eisenhower as his vice presidential running mate, is seen in Minneapolis during a stop-over on a 42-state electioneering junket.

Escaped Ionia Inmates Caught

DETROIT—(AP)—Two trustees who brutally beat their guard in escaping from an Ionia reformatory work gang Tuesday were captured here early today.

The two were seized in a car which police said had been stolen from Lowell, Mich., west of Ionia. The two were unarmed and offered no resistance, officers said.

The escapees are John Edward Nash, 20, of Lansing, and Marvin D. Rogers, 18, of Ionia. They were the objects of a large scale manhunt in Kent and Ionia counties late Tuesday and early Wednesday.

While on a work crew outside the reformatory, they attacked Guard Joseph Wells, 60, with a cant hook, breaking his arm and inflicting severe cuts on his head before fleeing.

The arrest was made by Detectives Richard Morris and Jack Garrett, acting on a tip that the two would be in a certain area. The detectives recognized the escapees from broadcast descriptions.

Russians Bomb British Vessel

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—(AP)—A British sea captain today accused Russian airplanes of making an unprovoked bombing attack on his ship near the Soviet port of Archangel last Sept. 14.

Soviet sea planes dropped three bombs but none hit. Capt. Leslie Gow of the 3,538-ton freighter "Berylstone" told reporters.

British intelligence agents interviewed him when the vessel returned from Russia this morning.

In London, the admiralty and the foreign office said they had heard of Gow's statements but could not yet comment.

Gow's account suggested a possibility that the Soviets had failed to identify the approaching ship and were trying to warn her away from Archangel.

British vessels ply regularly between the Arctic port and the United Kingdom in carrying on Anglo-Soviet trade.

Meat-Cleaver Killer Of Bullying Boarder Begins Prison Term

DETROIT—(AP)—Luigi Castelvete, who admitted he slew a bullying boarder, today began a sentence of five to 15 years in prison.

Castelvete, convicted of manslaughter in the meat-cleaver killing of Rocco Arrone, was sentenced yesterday by Recorder's Judge Gerald W. Groat. A court psychiatrist reported Castelvete was unlikely to become involved in any future trouble.

Arrone, 48, a boarder at the Castelvete home since 1925, was killed last Jan. 13. His body was found a day later in his burning car near Martin's Ferry, O.

The 57-year-old Castelvete claimed that he struck Arrone with a meat cleaver in fear after an argument. Arrone, he said, had frequently threatened members of his family with violence.

Freighters Collide Opposite Port Huron; Both Badly Damaged

PORT HURON, Mich.—(AP)—The 532-foot ore carrier George F. Rand was listing sharply today on the St. Clair river shore bottom after a collision with the freighter Harvey H. Brown.

The Coast Guard said the two freighters collided yesterday opposite Port Huron.

Plates were buckled on the Rand's port side and additional pumps were being brought out to handle the inflow of water. The vessel was moored by cables to a wharf.

Indiana—Some inexperienced youngsters have been getting chances in Hoosier practice sessions to work with the varsity. They include Steve Superick, Bill Holzbach and William Zeller.

Northwestern—Coach Bob Voigts hopes to improve the Wildcat passing attack, which clicked on only eight of 25 overhead attempts last week against Minnesota. Voigts has been stressing the aerial game in practice for Navy.

Ohio State—The Buckeyes' defense is looking good but Coach Woody Hayes is worried about his pass offense in drills for Indiana.

Wisconsin—Bill Hutchinson, a reserve halfback, is the latest entry on the Badger injured list. A leg injury is bothering him.

Marquette—Coach Lisle Blackburn thinks the Hilltoppers are rounding into shape for the Tulsa game. He is satisfied with defensive work against the Hurricanes' split-T attack.

Michigan State—Two cripples, fullback Wayne Benson and end Bob Carey, have returned to the Spartan squad. Both will be ready for Penn State Saturday.

Michigan—The Wolverine variety is looking good in scrimmage sessions. The running of Don Oldham, Bill Putich and Ted Kress, and the passing of Putich, Ted Topor and Don Peterson, appears well synchronized.

Illinois—The Illini, minus reserve halfback Bob Rylowicz, leave today for Seattle and the Washington game Saturday. Rylowicz is out with a knee injury. Quarterback Tom O'Connell also has a lame leg but will make the trip.

South Bend—Coach Frank Leahy is giving his Irish plenty of work on pass offense and defense. Both were off last Saturday, when the Irish lost to Southern Methodist.

Michigan Seeks Second Victory In Iowa Clash

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—Michigan's rejuvenated Wolverines shoot for their second Western conference football victory against once-beaten Iowa at Iowa City Saturday.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's club a failure outside the league so far, hopes to carry on in the sparkling fashion that brought home a 33 to 14 win over Indiana in the big ten debut a week ago.

In that game, the Wolverines bolstered a lagging running game with a shower of passes that broke the Hoosiers' backs. And the forward pass is expected to figure prominently again.

Air Threat

But this time, the opponents figure to give Michigan a real aerial test, too. The Wolverines' tight will be to stop quarterback Burt Britzmann who sank Pitt with an aerial barrage good for 203 yards and three touchdowns.

Michigan, without a single outstanding passer, will again rely on its multiple passing system that brought six throwers into action against Indiana.

The regular backfield of quarterback Ted Lopor, halfbacks Wes Bradford and Capt. Bill Putich and fullback Don Peterson will again carry the load.

The running prospects were hurt at midweek with the word that regular wingback Frank Howell will not be back in the lineup at right half as was expected.

Howell Out

Howell is out indefinitely now with an ankle injury suffered Oct. 13 in the Stanford game.

In the rushing department, Iowa appeared to have the edge with George (Dusty) Rice and Lorenzie Williams, a pair of fleet sophomores, and Dick Reichardt, a rugged fullback.

Michigan will bank on its improving line, with slick end Lowell Perry, catcher of five passes for 165 yards against Indiana, and anchor-tackle Tom Johnson as the bulwarks. Johnson is expected to be completely recovered from a cold that sidelined him at midweek.

Truman Delays Decision To Run Until January

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman said today he will not disclose whether he will run for reelection until after he completed the three major messages he will submit to congress in January.

This was about the only definite thing the president said regarding his political future during a bantering exchange with reporters at a news conference.

A reporter told Mr. Truman that Senator Taft (R-Ohio), when announcing his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, had said he would like to see Mr. Truman as his Democratic opponent.

"Will you accommodate Senator Taft," the reporter asked.

The president said he couldn't answer that question now. He said he had made up his mind what he is going to do but he proposed to pick the time of his announcement.

Edward Liberty Is Arrested With Stolen Weapon

Edward Liberty, 31, of Escanaba, was arrested by Escanaba police last night on a charge of brandishing a loaded revolver in a local tavern. Later it was disclosed that the gun, a .32 caliber Colt police weapon, had been stolen from the Delta county sheriff's department.

Liberty was intoxicated in Quayle's Tavern, 1531 Sheridan police said, and was pointing the weapon at various persons in the tavern. He was arrested by the police at the Bay View tavern, 1531 Sheridan.

The sheriff's department reported that officers there would sign a complaint against Liberty for larceny of the gun. He also will be charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Everybody Will Pass For State Against Penn

EAST LANSING—(AP)—Everybody in the backfield—or rather both backfields—has been passing this week at Michigan State's football workouts.

Coach Biggie Munn is still searching for someone to spell the dependable Al Dorow, his veteran quarterback, in the passing attack.

There's been a lot of candidates but so far all have been just practice passers.

Dorow has 27 completions in 50 tries for 389 yards and two touchdowns. That's it for Michigan State's passing with a single exception.

The only other man to complete a pass was Tom Yewic, with his transcontinental completion that was good for a touchdown and won the Ohio State game.

Wells Tried

Halfback Billy Wells of Menominee and quarterback Allen Jones both tried one and missed one so far this season. Willy Throver threw three, missed one and had two intercepted.

Yewic, now looked upon as the number two quarterback, and Willie both have been heaving hopefully all week. They connect in practice but the big question is if they can do it under game conditions.

The rest of the cast of the first string and "pony" backfields also has been working with pass plays under scrimmage conditions.

Don McAlliff and Leroy Bolden have been throwing from left half. At right half the passers have included Vince Pisano and Wells. Even the fullbacks, Wayne Benson and Dick Panin, have tried a couple in practice.

Excluding the quarterbacks, Bolden, Pisano and Wells have been having the best percentage of success. If any of the others pass in the game its most likely to be a "confusion" play, just mixed in to keep the opposing defensive outfit off balance.

Kremlin Rebuffs Offer To Promote Peace In Korea

that the government of the U.S.A. is not at all "concerned with the maintenance of peace."

As examples, he complained of economic measures the U. S. has taken recently against Russia and the Soviet bloc and of President Truman's statement that agreements with Russia aren't worth the paper they are written on.

The rebuff convinced top American officials that at the moment Moscow is not interested in confidential negotiations like those which ended the Berlin blockade. They tabbed Vishinsky's response "propaganda."

Charles E. Bohlen, state department counselor and Secretary Acheson's principal adviser on relations with the Kremlin, told reporters: "It is characteristic of Soviet procedure that when they are seriously interested in any subject they don't publicize it the way they did this."

Peaceful Deal Possible

At the same time some officials thought they detected two possible hints that Moscow may be willing to reach a settlement in Korea and to discuss the settlement of other east-west issues. They noted:

1. Vishinsky reaffirmed that Russia is standing by its proposal of last June which initiated the Korean armistice talks. This was that Moscow had in mind an armistice on a military basis with political considerations to be left for the future.

2. The foreign minister wound up his 2,000-word statement by saying Russia "agrees to examine with the participation of the government of the U. S. A., all important and unsettled questions and to discuss measures for the improvement of international relations, including relations between the Soviet Union and the U. S. A."

Some authorities speculated this referred to the announcement last month by Acheson and the British and French foreign ministers rather than to anything Kirk said. This was that the western powers held to the view that a peaceful settlement of east-west issues is possible, and that the meeting of the United Nations general assembly at Paris next month would afford an opportunity for discussions.

Ambassador Leaving

Kirk's approach was made with the advance knowledge of Britain and France and of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the U. N. commander, officials said. It was decided on as a means of taking the Kremlin's temperature because Kirk was preparing to leave Moscow before retiring as ambassador, and could talk with Vishinsky in a farewell call.

Because the Kremlin took advantage of a similar confidential approach made by Former Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith when he left Moscow in 1948, the state department was wary. It had ready for publication—in case Russia broke the confidence—its version of what Kirk said orally, and the reply Vishinsky turned over last Monday to Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., in charge of the embassy since Kirk departed. When the Moscow radio started broadcasting Vishinsky's statement last night the department quickly made public the entire exchange.

Midwest Roundup

CHICAGO—(AP)—Midwest football briefs.

Minnesota—Three more freshmen have been promoted to starting roles for the Gophers against Nebraska, fullback Ron Wallin, halfback Marty Eng and center Scott Prescott. All will play on the offensive team.

Iowa—Quarterback Burt Britzmann has not thrown a pass in scrimmage for eight days. The Hawkeye ace has been favoring an injured shoulder.

Purdue—Coach Stu Holcomb is sticking with his light, but fast, backfield combination: Quarterback Dale Samuels, halfbacks Earl Henninger and Phil Klezek and fullback Jerry Thorpe.

Indiana—Some inexperienced youngsters have been getting chances in Hoosier practice sessions to work with the varsity. They include Steve Superick, Bill Holzbach and William Zeller.

Federal Agents Nab 22 For Fraud In GI Educational Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The FBI today announced the arrest of 22 persons on charges of fraud against the government in connection with the G. I. educational program.

Fourteen arrests were made in Miami, Fla., two in Detroit, one in Dayton, O., two in New York City and three in the Newark, N. J. area.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified those arrested as employees, officials, and owners of five vocational schools, including the Berlitz School of Languages of America, Inc., at Miami.

Hoover said the alleged frauds total more than $350,000.

Pigeon, Mich., Schools Closed Up By Polio

PIGEON, Mich.—(AP)—A fourth daughter of one family was stricken with polio today to bring to seven the number of cases in this Huron county village of 1,000 persons.

The latest victim was 14-year-old Carol Schramke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Schramke. Three of her sisters in the family of 12 were stricken previously—Irene, 10, Jean, 11, and Alice, 5.

Authorities have ordered schools closed until Oct. 29 in an effort to halt spread of the disease.

Polio has been on the wane in the rest of the state since the first week of September.

Detroit Hoodlums Get Out Of Contempt Case

DETROIT—(AP)—Two notorious Detroit police characters, Pete Licavoli and Mike Rubino, have escaped trial on contempt of Congress charges.

U. S. District Judge Arthur A. Kosciński quashed an indictment against them yesterday, holding that answering the simplest questions for the Senate crime investigating committee might have breached their constitutional rights.

Danbury County Fair Is Typically American

By ARTHUR B. RICKERBY
NEA Staff Correspondent
DANBURY, Conn.—(NEA)—In the Gay 90's there was a highly popular ditty which went like this:

I went to the Danbury Fair,
The birds and the bees were there.
And the old baboon
By the light of the moon,
Was combing his auburn hair.
This month the old baboon will come out of wraps again. Mounted on a pedestal which bears the words of the old ditty, it will be on hand to greet the customers at the 1951 Danbury Fair and stand as sort of a symbol of the country fair season, now reaching its annual peak all over the U.S.

The Danbury version, which has been going for a long time, is now one of the biggest in the East. It is also typical of the great American fair except for one thing: it is probably the only one in the country that is completely a one-man operation, run without any state subsidy.

Impressario at Danbury is John Leahy, a self-styled Connecticut Yankee operating somewhat in the tradition of the fabulous P. T. Barnum, who also hailed from Connecticut.

In tattered work pants, scuffed saddle shoes and an old tennis hat, Leahy looks like just another workman around the sprawling fair grounds. In a way, he is. He bosses the whole show and also attends to some pretty small details, too, even to replacing fuses or getting new casters for the office swivel chairs.

He is also a millionaire oil distributor whose full-time hobby happens to be running the fair as its landlord and sole owner.

"As a boy I had three ambitions," Leahy says, "to own a pair of white swans, a new car with white-walled tires, and to make money."

At 56, he has achieved all three, and is a country tycoon in the city where he grew up and went to work after the eighth grade for $4.25 a week. At 18, he bought a lathe and went into business for himself.

The machine shop he started in those days is still running, but his oil distribution business is the big money maker, having gotten that way because Leahy would deliver fuel to customers in storms or at hours when other companies wouldn't.

While the oil brings in the money, for the last eight years, The Great Danbury Fair has taken up most of his time and energy. He talks unceasingly about it to anyone within earshot—workmen, visitors, farmers, small children, and probably, if no one else is around, his two pet swans.

Leahy claims he doesn't know whether the fair makes money or not, but Danbury businessmen who know him are sure that if Leahy isn't making money on his hobby, he's not losing any, either.

His idea of a fair is first to present farm products to show agricultural progress, then to be educational, instructive and entertaining, in that order.

"Why, over in that shed," he points out, "we have the original wood-burning pioneer railroad engine—the Daniel Nason. It was running in 1858 when Lincoln was nominated. Took me two and a half years to buy that one. Just think of the history lessons that teaches."

Another of Leahy's ideas is an aversion to free passes, a policy which is strange to the entertainment business and which nettles a number of people around Danbury. He thinks if his fair is worth coming to, it's worth paying for, and would gladly pay his own way into one of the exhibits of which he's proudest.

That's the P. T. Barnum shed, where a number of the famous stunts and animal attractions he made famous have been recreated. Leahy, for whom Barnum is something of an idol, spent $3000 to build a life sized, electrically-operated model of Jumbo, the giant elephant.

Leahy got into the fair business because a woman gave him a share of stock to pay her bill. The fair wasn't doing so well then, so he was able to buy up the stock, saved the grounds and buildings from being foreclosed, and took over control.

This summer Leahy also became a producer, converting the steel and concrete grandstand into a theatre where revivals of Rose Marie, Naughty Marietta, and other musical comedies and operettas were staged. He intends to keep it up.

"People love old music and old song," he says, "It's a great thing to bring them to people."

He has another idea about bringing things to people, too. "I'd like to dramatize the Great Danbury Fair on Broadway with real animals, special staging, a big production. Real big."

Leahy likes to do things in a big way, like country fairs.

CRYSTALS STILL USED
NEW YORK — (AP) — Crystals, greatly improved over the old crystal set days, continue to be widely used in radio. They are employed for many purposes, such as noise limiters, detectors and the like in reception, and as frequency-control devices to keep a transmitter on its exact wave length.

Garden

Church Services
GARDEN—Church services at Garden are: St. John the Baptist: October Devotions each evening at 7:30. Masses at 8 and 10 a. m. Sunday Congregational: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Worship service at 4 p. m.

Retreat Schedule
The 1951 retreat schedule for women was concluded at Marygrove the past weekend, with the Rev. Eugene Hennelly of Iron River as retreat master.

Pantry Shower
The pantry shower given Thursday night for the resident Dominican Sisters at Marygrove by the women of the St. John parish was a great success. In cards played during the social period, prizes were won by Mrs. Herbert Plant and Mrs. Joe Ouradnik. A very nice lunch was served. Uiysses Maynard was lunch chairman and Mrs. Eugene Bernier jr. directed entertainment.

Adult Education
Religious education classes for adults will begin at Marygrove this (Thursday) evening at 8 with Fr. Roland Bassett instructing. All men and women are invited to attend.

Service Personnel
Ensign Gerard Thibault, Mrs. Thibault and daughter Pamela left Saturday for Detroit. The former will train for eight weeks at Grosse Ile in the Naval Air Corps. Mrs. Thibault and Pam will stay at the home of her sister Mrs. Louis Guertin until her husband moves on to Pensacola, Fla.

Earl Clifton, U. S. Army, came Saturday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clifton of Kate's Bay. He recently returned from Korea. This is his first visit home since he enlisted when 17 years old, four years ago.

Robert Bouchard, U. S. Army, came Saturday to visit at the home of his sister Mrs. Ernest Plante. He recently returned from the battle front in Korea.

Briefs
Mrs. James Rivers of Alpena spent the weekend at the Charles Tatrow home.

John Tatrow of Muskegon spent the weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tatrow. Alan Dotsch of Alpena spent the weekend here with Milton Farley.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Feldhusen of Iron Mountain were weekend guests at the Henry Deloria home. Mr. and Mrs. Alton Olmsted of Munising and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Olmsted of Detroit were guests of Mrs. Arta Hazen Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Campbell of Marinette were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rasmussen.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Winter of Manistique came Friday to spend several days with Mrs. Arta Hazen.

Mrs. Katherine McNally is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Henry Abel of Escanaba.

Wayne U. Authors Write Of Slave 'Underground'

In the years before the Civil War, when slavery was an issue between the states, Michigan ran 'underground railways' to aid Negroes fleeing bondage. Laura S. Haviland of Adrian was in the thick of that struggle.

Famous enough to have had a statue erected in her honor, she found time, not only to participate as a leader in the underground movement, but to raise her family of six children, start a school for teachers, and operate an industrial school for girls. A Quaker preacher, she became an author at the age of 73. Her autobiography, "A Woman's Life Work," went through three editions.

As a "conductor" on the underground railway, she faced many dangers. The Southern slaveholders resorted to every legal device and often to desperate measures to prevent aid for runaway slaves. The kind of perils faced by "Aunt Laura," and the wide range of operations of the underground railway in Michigan are described in a recent book, "Michigan: From Primitive Wilderness to Industrial Commonwealth," a history of the state written by Dr. Sidney Glazer, associate professor of history at Wayne University, and Dr. Milo M. Quaife, formerly a special lecturer at Wayne.

Two main lines of the underground railway, each with regular "stations," crossed Michigan. Escaped Negroes were hidden, fed, and sent forward from one station to another until they reached safe territory. Aunt Laura was a conductor on the main line that began at Adrian and ran through Tecumseh, Saline, and Ypsilanti to Detroit.

After having been hidden in barns, cellars and fields for many days, traveling only by night, the fugitive would finally reach Detroit; then would cross into Canada, and thus escape recapture.

Michigan's other main route, known as the Central line, ran from Cass county through the communities of Schoolcraft, Battle Creek, Marshall, Albion, Jackson, Grass Lake, Dexter, Ann Arbor, and Plymouth to Detroit. It was on this line that the celebrated "Crosswhite incident" occurred.

Adam Crosswhite, a slave who had escaped with his family from Kentucky when his children were about to be sold, chose to settle in Marshall, rather than proceed on to Canada. Here a spy from the Kentucky slave owners found him and tried to effect his return. Anti-slavery people forcibly prevented this—at the expense of a $1,900 fine levied against them in federal court. Eventually, Crosswhite and his family had to be spirited away to Canada.

Michigan's underground railways continued to operate until Abraham Lincoln emancipated the slaves in 1863.

American Composer Visits In Israel

TEL AVIV—(AP)—Aaron Copland, the American composer, will give a number of lectures in a musician's home in Zichron Yaakov in Israel this spring. Western music will be his main subject. Copland's work for choir based on the Biblical text "In the Beginning" will be played at this year's Music Festival in Ein Gev on the Sea of Galilee.

Mental Hospital Is Open For Inspection

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Woodsville State Hospital near here has stripped away the veil of secrecy that usually surrounds treatment of the insane.

In an open house session, the hospital conducted hundreds of visitors on an hour and one-half bus and walking tours of its grounds and buildings. Special guides accompanied the groups and answered questions.

Guests saw nearly $3,000,000 of construction under way, including a $1,750,000 admissions and office building. They saw the million dollar 220-bed old-age building, a 900,000-gallon reservoir, 525 acres of contour farming land, a tuberculosis unit, and farm colony building.

Much interest was shown in the work-therapy shops where patients learn trades.

Baseball Bigger News Than Elizabeth's Tour

BY ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—If by some unlikely chance I were working for his majesty's government, I would fire the vice-chancellor in charge of public relations for insular stupidity in sending Princess Liz and her spouse to this continent at a time when the nation is pre-occupied with a World Series and the upcoming football season.

I know the first part of call was Canada, but we have been covering the good lady in half-hearted manner from long distance, and she has been more or less making the girdle-advertisement section of the press, because there is no living royalty, including King Zog, who can compete with a World Series of the intensity of this late lamented classic. Liz's safari to this strange land has been less epic than routine, and there are some citizens about who wouldn't know, and couldn't care less, that the continent has been invaded.

You get to thinking about timing, once in a while, and then you think how smart the boys who dumped Willie Moretti were. Here is an instance in which the vice-president in charge of murder must be complimented for advanced thinking.

Coverage on New York
It is well known that any hoodlum of bigger than .22 caliber is bound to be on hand at series time. All the little tough towns, like Evansville and Akron and Cicero and East St. Lou, are emptied of their criminal content. The nations crookedness converges on New York, and there is no way for an honest cop to say that Joe and Pete and Sluggo and Icepick are possible suspects due to being absent from the home fold.

So in the midst of the conclave, some guys named Charlie meet poor old Willie and give it to him in the ear, and they leave hats with local datelines on the hatband, and the moral is clear: here is a hat, boys. Don't talk through it. And then they go to the ball game.

Because they know the ball game is a cinch to obscure anything of vital importance, such as killing Willie, or developing a new bomb, or a tax hike, or a rent raise. Baseball is about the last thing we have here of paramount importance that so far has been tamper-proof. As such it commands a tremendous interest, and the nation knocks off.

I can tell you simply why the visit of Princess Liz and the scragging of poor Willie was relegated to the detriment of loyal presence and illegal removal. Baseball is a thing we can trust, and the mere existence of a conflict that reflects personal security is automatic front-page news.

Trust in Baseball
The folks mightn't trust Truman and his friends, but they know might well that a pitcher would dust off his grandmother to protect an earned-run average. Acheson is open to doubt, but DiMaggio ain't. The kids take dope, perhaps and muggers abound, and you never know whether the truth on the stand is telling the man. The cops steal and the political hookup with the mob is apparent, and the air is full of sound and fury.

But major baseball has stayed clean, despite all efforts to contaminate it, since the boys figured that basketball and football were automatic cinches for corruption. The big effort to debate it was definitely on until the professional football scandals and the basket nastiness came about, and the boys lost a little heart. The Kefauver emphasis on criminality further deterred the fix, and all the noise this year about general wrongdoing has halted a gang effort to "organize" Ab Doubleday's heir.

It is a sad thing that a simple sport like baseball is bigger than a queen-to-be's visit or the murder of a top racketeer and bigger than the mess in Washington, or the implied doom of us all, atom-wise, oilwise, diplomacwise. And the answer is easily as simple as the sport. All of us need something to hang onto, and darned if baseball isn't about the last best security we own.

Two out of three first graders who have trouble learning to read are below par in vision, says the American Optometric Association.

Penny Famine Recalls U. S. 'Coppers' Story

Against all copybook maxims, the slogan now is: "Don't save your pennies."

With a copper shortage on, and the Mint hard put to keep up with the current booming demand for the coins, Uncle Sam is asking hoarders to get out their cookie jar and piggy bank collections. Not that a spending spree is in order. It is even thriftier, says the Treasury Department, to save in larger amounts and invest in interest-paying U. S. bonds.

By legislation passed in 1864 U. S. pennies must contain 95 per cent copper, plus a five per cent mixture of tin and zinc, says the National Geographic Society.

At present it is estimated there are 18,367,792,533 pennies outstanding, which by no means indicates an equivalent number in actual circulation. Many are held by collectors and savers, and large numbers are concentrated in vending-machine and other big-scale operations.

Since the ration of tin and zinc is not specified, the penny's much needed tin content was reduced to a minimum soon after the United States entered World War II. An emergency issue of zinc-coated steel cents was struck in 1943, their composition determined by the necessity for conserving precious copper and other strategic metals.

So unpopular were the gray coins, however, that this minting was discontinued after that year, and many have been retired when turned in. Mutilated against further use as money, they have gone into scrap to make such things as pins, wire, and structural steel. Instead of steel, the mint was authorized to use expended brass shell cases as the raw material for one-cent pieces. The first coin authorized by the U. S. Congress was a cent bearing the date 1787. A big, pure-copper piece, it is known as the Fugio, or Franklin cent because Benjamin Franklin is believed to have inspired its motto, "Mind your business."

Following the establishment of the official U. S. Mint in 1792, came the all-copper "Liberty" cents, turned out with numerous die variations. It bears the head of a woman and a liberty cap on the front; a chain or wreath on present content of cents. Flying Eagle and Indian Head coins were made of 88 per cent copper and 12 per cent nickel. The resulting "white penny," paled by the nickel ingredient, has been of special interest to collectors.

The Treasury's latest and current cent, the Lincoln Head, was first struck in 1909. Pennies of that year, bearing the initial S (for the San Francisco Mint), and V.D.B. (for the initials of the designer, Victor D. Brenner) have the highest book value of the issue because of their relative scarcity. This scarcity came about when the designer's initials were removed soon after minting was started.

Far more cents are struck than other coins. In 1950, more than 726,000,000 were manufactured in U. S. mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Denver. The figure was more than three times the total of nickels, dimes, quarters and fifty-cent pieces.

The supply of the coppers has fluctuated wildly through the years. Among factors affecting demand are sales taxes and parking meters, inflationary pressures and price controls which may bring about sudden mass changes in fractional costs.

IT'S NATIONAL MACARONI WEEK C'MON and CELEBRATE WITH GOOD FOOD and a BARGAIN

Serve Your Family SPAGHETTI CARUSO

You'll enjoy this delicious, easy, inexpensive dish for a tempting family dinner or party menu. For real success, use Skinner's Deluxe Spaghetti.

1 14-oz. pkg. SKINNER'S Long Spaghetti
4 tbsp. olive oil
2 cloves garlic, halved
2 medium onions, chopped
1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 lb. chicken livers
1 tsp. basil
1 4-oz. can Italian tomato paste
1 1/2 cups tomatoes
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. thyme
1 bay leaf
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

PREPARE THIS EASY WAY
Sauté garlic in oil 5 minutes. Remove. Add onions and mushrooms, sauté 5 minutes. Add livers which have been cut in small pieces, cook 5 minutes more, stirring to brown on all sides. Add tomato paste, tomatoes, seasonings and herbs. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, bring 3 qts. water to rapid boil, add 1 tsp. salt. Add spaghetti gradually. Cook uncovered at rapid boil 15 minutes, or until tender when cut with fork against kettle. Drain, do not rinse. Skinner's Tender-Kneaded Spaghetti requires no rinsing. Toss hot spaghetti with 2 tbsp. Parmesan cheese, arrange on hot platter. Pour sauce over top, sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Serves 6-8.

Modern Longbowmen Revive Ancient Art

Bow-and-arrow hunters by the tens of thousands are taking to the woods this autumn as short field archery seasons open in many game preserves on the United States and Canada.

For several decades the popularity of archery has been steadily increasing, says the National Geographic Society.

In the United States archery as a hobby and a sport dates from 1828 when a group of enthusiasts organized in Philadelphia. The shift from target tournaments to hunting began in earnest about 1940. Today archery ranks among the top ten sports in popularity.

Business, Not Hobby

From the Stone Age to the 16th century and later archery was a serious business to many of the peoples of the world. Food, clothing and home defense depended on skill with a bow. Cave men scratched crude pictures of archers into stone cavern walls in France and Spain. The Assyrians and Babylonia left sculpture to prove their prowess and the Egyptians recorded theirs in hieroglyphics.

Thousands of Persian arrowheads have been found on the battlefield of Marathon, northeast of Athens, Greece. The Scythians probably introduced the bow to the Greeks who passed it on to the Romans. The Goths, Huns and Vandals, with superior archery skill eventually beat the Romans to the draw.

For centuries the bow was a formidable weapon in the hands of the English. Their archers, armed with powerful six-foot long bows, pierced the armor of knightly adversaries and with the bow they decided the fate of nations at Crecy, Portiers and Agincourt. By the last half of the 16th century the end of the bow as a serious weapon of war was in sight.

Primitive tribesmen in many lands, lacking firearms, still rely on the bow. An exception is the spear-carrying aborigine of Arnhem Land in northern Australia, where the weapon was never developed.

Latter Day Robin Hoods

Nineteen states and Canada now permit bow and arrow hunting. Today the field archer's quarry is chiefly deer, wild pig, wild turkey, ducks, squirrels, and even fish. An occasional moose, bear or mountain lion is reported. Modern bowmen claim higher target efficiency than their American Indian predecessors, but the stalking ability is sometimes inadequate. In one State nearly 1,000 archers took out hunting permits last year but only 250 successfully stalked and bagged their game.

PATH OF POLIO

The Newsmap above shows the total number of cases of polio per state during 1950, according to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Also shown is a comparison by states of the number of cases per 100,000 population. The national polio rate during 1950 was 22.1 cases per 100,000—a serious figure when compared with the 20 per 100,000 health authorities set as an "epidemic" rate.

Mrs. Oscar Gustafson and daughter Karen and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wyle of Evanston, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. John Jaeger of Sibleyville, Ill., were weekend visitors at the Paul Porath home.

Mrs. Regina Ridy of Milwaukee has returned to her home after visiting at the Alex Muther home. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Baribeau and daughter Agnes, accompanied by Mrs. Louis Johnson, visited in Iron Mountain with Bill Baribeau, who is a patient there.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dahlke attended the wedding of Mr. Dalke's niece at New Lisbon, Wis., this weekend.

Steals From Thieves

FLINT — (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Martin Holland, accused of stealing from thieves, was placed on three years' probation. Police said he stole $475 from the hangout of his buddies after the money has been stolen from a Flint theater.

Titanium Is Metal To Watch, American Expert Predicting

DETROIT — (AP) — "Titanium is the metal to watch."

That is the opinion of three experts attending the world metallurgical congress here this week.

They are Ernest E. Thum of Cleveland, editor of "metal progress," Dr. Bartley Stoughton, retired dean of engineering at Lehigh University; and Walter E. Jominy, chief metallurgist for Chrysler Corp.

Titanium, they said in an interview, weighs half as much as steel, but is far stronger than aluminum. It is found in many clays, with ilmenite and rutile being its principal ores.

Someday, the experts agreed, it will be produced by thousands of tons.

The experts also said they believe that the production and use of aluminum will be doubled within the next few years.

Have all ingredients at room temperature.

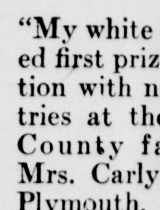

Sift together.....	2 1/2 cups sifted King Midas Enriched Flour 4 1/2 teaspoons baking powder 1 teaspoon salt 1 3/4 cups sugar	strokes by hand. Batter should be smooth.
Blend in.....	3/4 cups vegetable shortening 1 cup milk 1 teaspoon lemon extract 1 teaspoon vanilla	Beat.....
Beat.....	for 1 1/2 minutes at medium speed in electric mixer or 150	Pour.....
		Bake.....

(For 9x13-inch loaf, bake at 350° F. for 40 to 45 minutes)

What They Say About King Midas

"I do all my baking from bread to the finest cakes with King Midas Flour and they all turn out so nice. I have used King Midas for fifteen years now and will always buy it," states Mrs. John Suojanen of Cornell, Michigan.

"My white bread received first prize in competition with nine other entries at the Sheboygan County fair," writes Mrs. Carlyle Jewett of Plymouth, Wisconsin. "My oatmeal cookies were also a blue ribbon winner, and out of my seven baked goods entries I was awarded six prizes. I think this speaks very well for your product."

"I have used King Midas Flour ever since I started keeping house over 29 years ago," says Mrs. Walter H. Miller of Forestville, Wisconsin. "Now my children are married and all bake with King Midas. Thank you for a wonderful product."

Rutgers Maps Laboratory Battle Against Disease

EXPERTS CONFER — Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, visits Dr. Selman A. Waksman at Rutgers.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — A bold new search among microbes for drugs to defeat death and disease is underway at Rutgers University.

The plans call for a study of microbe life far broader than anything ever done before. The goals are many—to find new and better drugs, even ones that may control polio; to seek disease fighters for plants and animals; to find knowledge to aid industry, agriculture, government, and doctors.

The search centers in the department of microbiology, scheduled soon to become the Institute of Microbiology. The unique institute is the brain child of Dr. Selman A. Waksman, from whose laboratories came streptomycin, the wonder drug for tuberculosis. Its program is already underway, with a $1,000,000 institute building to be constructed soon. It is being financed largely by royalties from streptomycin.

Streptomycin and other antibiotics come from microbes living mainly in the soil. The drugs are chemicals produced by these tiny mites of life—microscopic in size but giants as factories of wonder drugs.

A handful of them—penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin, terramycin, chloromycetin, to name a few—are already established as effective drugs to control or cure a growing list of human ailments.

More still lie undiscovered in the soil, in water basins, in foods. In fact, says Dr. Waksman, it is not too much to hope that "before long all human and animal infections, and possible also plant infections, will be combatted if not completely eliminated by the use of antibiotics."

The quest for them is underway over the world, with scientists analyzing thousands of soil samples. It is often a hit-or-miss proposition, with only a handful of promising and safe new drugs showing up.

The institute will do this kind of search, but will also make it more comprehensive, Dr. Waksman said in an interview.

That means learning more about the life cycle of molds or fungi, of bacteria, and of actinomycetes, a form of microbe life somewhere between fungi and bacteria.

The institute will not have fixed departments of research, but instead will be built around projects, Dr. Waksman said. The projects can be changed to meet the most important needs.

Right now, four main projects in antibiotics are planned or underway:

1. A search for drugs that will control viruses, the tiny disease agents, smaller than bacteria, that ter of research on anti-TB drugs. Neomycin, a new antibiotic recently developed here, shows promise of killing TB germs. And the germs may not become resistant to it, as they can to streptomycin.

3. Antibiotics speed the growth of pigs, chickens and some other animals, presumably their effect on bacteria in the intestines. These growth-promoting effects will be studied.

4. A study of fundamental problems in antibiotics. This will include how and why bacteria sometimes become resistant to a drug.

The Institute will serve four great fields, Dr. Waksman added: 1. Medical institutions, through discovery of new drugs, or new knowledge of their action.

2. Industry, through discovery of drugs or other products which industry could turn out. The institute also will train students and perhaps some industrial personnel for specialized jobs.

3. Government, in peace or war. War brings new problems of tropical fungi, of strange infections and epidemics, and the threat of bacteriological warfare.

4. Agriculture. Microbes may be harnessed to help the farmer in a number of ways, including control of plant and animal diseases, and increase of human food supplies.

Women Voters League Will Meet Friday

Mrs. H. J. Liverance of Detroit, organization chairman of the Michigan chapter of the League of Women Voters, and two other state officers will address a public meeting for women at the Escanaba city hall at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

Plans for the formation of an Escanaba chapter of the league will be discussed.

All women are invited to attend.

Mrs. Matheson Is Re-Elected Chairman Of Skilled Jills

Mrs. Glenn Matheson was elected chairman of the Skilled Jills home economics club for the third consecutive year at the regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Clyde Moersch. Mrs. William Savageau, jr., is secretary-treasurer of the group and Mrs. Lawrence Paquin, reporter.

Retiring officers are Mrs. Palmer Jergeson and Mrs. William Beyersdorf, jr.

Other club members include Mrs. John Holland, sr., Mrs. Earl Haddy, Mrs. Clyde Moersch, Mrs. Herman Palmateer and Mrs. John Holland, jr.

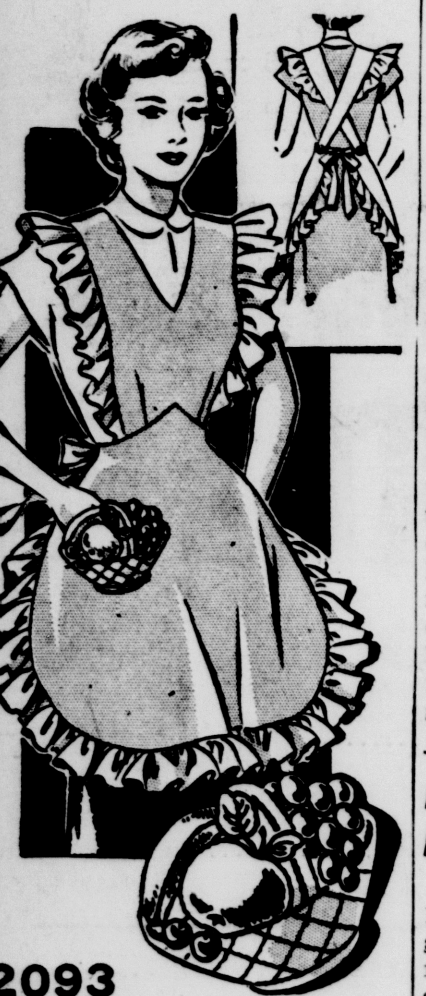

The Christmas workshop lesson was presented by Mrs. Savageau and Mrs. Matheson. The club decided to assist a needy family and to exchange small gifts at Christmas.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cota, 928 6th Avenue South, are in Chicago visiting with their son, Don, who will soon be transferred from Fort Sheridan.

Miss Amanda Meier of Los Angeles, Calif., is a guest at the home of the J. E. Spragues, 1209 South 15th. Mrs. Sprague is a niece of Miss Meier.

Give your fall suits and coats a day or two of rest between wearings. MSC clothing specialists point out that they'll be more serviceable that way than if they're worn day after day without a rest.

Lecture, 'Table Talk' Is Interesting Club Program

A fascinating study of a subject which never fails to intrigue women, chinaware, or porcelain, as it is properly called was given by Mrs. G. Z. de La Pointe of Elmhurst, Ill., in her demonstration lecture, "Table Talk" at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Escanaba Woman's club in Westminster Hall of the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. de La Pointe, who identified herself as a former resident of the Upper Peninsula, Iron River, to be exact, stressed the value of color in her introduction.

"There is a general interest today in interior decoration," she said, "and all of us are becoming color conscious. Color is particularly important in the dining room and you may glamorize what you have and with new color combinations give new life to your dining room and table settings."

She traced the history of china from the first appearance of lovely pieces in China in the 8th century which died out with the death of the generation which held the secret of their making and from the 16th century in which china became known on the continent through trade with the Orient. She touched on the discovery of the china process in Dresden, first, and 70 years later in England, and described the characteristics of the best known English ware, Spode and Wedgwood, the latter now in its 10th generation of manufacture, of bone china and of Meissen ware in Germany.

Birthday Party For Mrs. Starrs

Mrs. Sophie Starrs, 309 South 12th, who was 74 October 17, was guest of honor at a party given for her. She was the recipient of many lovely gifts. A delicious lunch was served by her daughters. Attending were her sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Costley, Mrs. Roy Costley, and James Costley; her four daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Huff and daughter, Mrs. Howard Disneau, and Mary Doris Costley; her sister, Mrs. D. R. Nixon; and her niece, Bernice Ramey.

Halloween Stories Saturday Morning

More Halloween stories will be told by Miss Betty M. Harris Saturday morning at 10 in the children's room of Carnegie public library. They will include "Witch-Wee and Her Little Idea" and "Pumpkin Face." The story hour attendance last Saturday was 100.

Social-Club

Rebekah Social Party Phoebe Rebekah Lodge No. 179 will hold a social party on Friday evening, October 19th at the Odd Fellows hall, N. 10th street beginning at 8 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

J.U.G.'s 4-H Club The J.U.G.'s 4-H club will meet tonight at 7 at the Ford River Mills school house. All members should be present.

C. & N. W. Women's Club The Women's club of the Chicago and North Western Railway of Escanaba has been invited to attend the observance of the 25th anniversary of Chicago and North Western club of Fond du Lac, on Wednesday, Oct. 31, at the Hotel Retlaw at 1 p. m. Reservations should be sent in by Oct. 24 to Mrs. Lee McMillan.

Russell's Birthday Party Russell Flath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Flath, 809 South 14th, celebrated his birthday, Oct. 16, by entertaining his friends at a party held in his home.

Games were played and prizes were awarded to winners. Each child was also presented with a Halloween hat, a noise maker balloon, a mask, and a gift that had been placed in a large pumpkin in the center of the table. Other decorations were in keeping with the Halloween motif.

Russell received many nice gifts and pictures were taken of the entire party.

Guests attending the party were Karyl Johnson, Ginny Olson, Susan Roberts, Mary Kay Valind, Jeanne Valind, Larry Valind, Jackie Flath, Paul Westlake, Richard Whitburn, Dennis Starline, and Russell's brother, Leslie. Also attending were Russell's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Starnine, Mrs. Richard Starnine, Mrs. Peter Silbunagel, Mrs. Irma Hanson, Mrs. Albert Ley and Miss Nina Ley.

Luther League District Convention Will Open Friday

The Luther League district convention will open at Immanuel Lutheran church Friday evening with the Rev. Bernhard Helland, missionary to India, as speaker. Members of the church who wish to remain for dinner Sunday after morning worship are asked to make reservations by Friday evening. The dinner will be served to the Luther Leaguers and visitors.

Need Of Religious Education Emphasized By Bishop Page

"The men who framed the Constitution never considered the question of religious education in public schools because it never occurred to them that American families would cease to give religious instruction to their children" the Rt. Rev. Herman R. Page, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Northern Michigan, told Episcopal women assembled in district meeting yesterday at St. Stephen's church in Escanaba.

"We must re-think our ideas about Christian education in our churches. It is as ridiculous for a bride to quit learning about cooking after she gets married as for people to stop learning about their religion after they have been confirmed," said Bishop Page as he outlined the great need for effective teaching in the church from the cradle to the grave.

The delegates to the convention saw a showing of the film, "Window in the Sky," which was given the first prize for religious films in 1950-51.

Mrs. Paul Chamberlain of Marquette, president of the diocesan Women's Auxiliary gave a report on the Synod conference at Ann Arbor in September. Mrs. William Kammeier of Escanaba presided at the afternoon session following a luncheon provided by St. Catherine's Guild. George Drew, lay minister at St. Alban's church, Manistique and Mrs. William Kell of Wilson gave reports of a training conference held at DeKoven Institute at Racine, Wis., in June.

The services began with the celebration of Holy Communion by the rector, the Rev. Joseph S. Dickson, assisted by the Rev. C. Norman Middleton of Grace church, Menominee.

Sixty delegates were present from Menominee, Wilson, Nahma, Manistique, Gladstone and Escanaba.

Homecoming At Northern Michigan This Weekend

Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, is celebrating its homecoming game with Michigan Tech October 19 and 20. The game will be played Saturday at 7:45 p. m.

Many other events have been planned along with the game Friday morning the Lydia M. Olson library will be dedicated and open house will follow the dedication. The Kappa coronation ball will be held in Lee Hall at 8 p. m. in the evening at which time the King and Queen will be crowned.

Saturday there is a dance, or lunch in the Lee Hall cafeteria for all alumni. The parade will start at two p. m. and will be followed by a tea for Miss Olson and alumni. The sororities and fraternities will hold open house.

All alumnae of the Delta Sigma Nu sorority are invited to a tea at the home of Dean and Mrs. Don Bottum, 605 West College from 4 to 6.

Major Stig Franzen Will Conduct Children's Meeting

Major Stig Franzen, of Chicago, Salvation Army divisional young people's leader, will conduct a meeting for children at 4 Friday afternoon at the Salvation Army hall, 112 North 15th street. The program will include tricks of magic among its interesting features. The visiting officer also will be in charge of a Sunday school teachers' meeting at 8 Friday evening.

Church Events

Membership Class The membership class of Bethany Lutheran church will meet Friday night at 7 in the parsonage chapel.

Bark River Choirs The junior and senior choirs of the Bark River Methodist church will practice at the church at 8 Friday evening.

Trinity Lutheran, Stonington Members of Trinity Lutheran parish, Stonington, will attend the district Luther League convention at Immanuel church, Escanaba. The sessions open Friday evening and continue through Saturday and Sunday.

St. Stephen's Meeting The parish meeting of St. Stephen's Episcopal church to create a budget for the year and to discuss the parish program will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Guild hall. A special feature will be showing of the beautiful color film, "Window in the Sky." Refreshments will be served.

Reformation Rally Practice Protestant choirs of Delta county are reminded to practice their Reformation Rally choir number at their respective rehearsals this week. The committee announces it will again use "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" arranged by Frederick Wick. Choirs received this music last year. A mass rehearsal will be held Thursday, October 25, at 8:30 at the First Presbyterian church in Escanaba.

Fellowship Meeting The Youth Fellowship of St. Stephen's Episcopal church is meeting at 7 this evening in the Fellowship room.

Cracked dishes should not be used. Water and food seep into the cracks and provide a breeding place for germs of all kinds. Even though the dish is not used immediately after washing, the bacteria will remain alive to come out and infect fresh food placed on the dish later.

Wife-Waiters Are Wierd Characters

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Are you a wife-waiter?

The average American husband is convinced he spends more time waiting for his wife to get dressed to go out than he does in earning her a living.

And he is more than half right.

Ten Different Classes

How can he ever teach his wife to get ready on time? There is no perfect solution to this problem—or any other problem in life or marriage. But there are some signposts along the way. Here are some wife-waiters I have known:

HAL BOYLE

1. The delirious newlywed—this damp-eyed boy chortles to his bride, "take your time, Sweetie-Pie. My mother won't mind if we're late to her dinner party. She's a very understanding mother." Two hours later he is grimly aware he'll have to choose between his understanding mother and his procrastinating bride.

2. The rug-fretter—He is the old-fashioned type who stomps back and forth wearing out the carpet as he bellows, "Oh, for Gawd's sake, Mable, please!"

3. The cunning husband—If he has tickets for a Wednesday night show, he tells his wife they're for Tuesday. That way, they only miss the first act.

4. The either-or-else giver—This ultimatum-maker shouts, "Either you're ready in five minutes or else we don't go." An hour later they leave, barking at each other like angry dogs.

5. The Boy Scout or fetch-and-carry type—He trots around grabbing up his wife's shoes and stockings and trying to button up the back of her dress. His reward from the frau is this: "If you don't get out of my way, I'll never be ready."

6. The strong silent type—He buys his wife a television set and refuses to take her out at all except to go to the funerals of her relatives.

7. The weak or life-is-hopeless type—He goes out into the kitchen, drinks a fifth of gin straight, then breaks out crying.

8. The give-'em-a-dose-of-their-own-medicine lad—He simply goes to bed and falls asleep. When his wife storms in demanding to know why he isn't dressed, he leaps drowsily, "it's your turn to wait, Ducky."

9. The patience-on-a-monument fellow—He just sits waiting in a glassy-eyed trance until his wife emerges, takes his paw in hers, and leads him out the door.

10. The self-improvement type—This is a new brand of husband that rather worries thoughtful wives, and may force them to correct the age-old feminine penchant for always being late.

He does useful things while waiting—such as charcoal drawings, reading up on gardening, building bookends, or repainting the living room walls.

This Type Dangerous

I heard of one fellow who took a correspondence course in executive management during the last hours his wife dawdled at her dressing table waiting for her fingernail polish to dry.

He passed the course with flying colors, and received several fine promotions at his office. That gave him a salary large enough to finance a divorce, which he promptly did. Then he married a younger and prettier woman.

"I still have to wait just as long for my wife," he tells friends. "But when that boudoir door finally opens, you ought to see what comes out now. She makes the old one look like Nelson's flagship."

As you can see, girls, this new self-improvement type of husband is a dangerous man to fool with. Don't keep him waiting too long—even if you have to go out in a bathing suit to get where he wants to take you on time.

Cultivation Still Effective On Weeds

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A warning to farmers who are fighting weeds with the new herbicides of recent years was issued here by Warren C. Shaw, agronomist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Shaw comes out in favor of cultivation as one of the most effective ways to control weeds.

"No available herbicide," says Shaw, "will kill all weeds and leave crop plants completely unharmed. If we do not cultivate to control resistant weeds, it will be only a short time until fields will be weedier than ever—with weeds even more difficult to control."

Shaw adds that research results throughout the country show that even when weeds are controlled with chemicals, may soils will give higher crop yields when cultivated at least once.

"MISTER INFANTRY"—Twenty years of military service, five of them in actual combat operations, have won the title "top combat soldier" for Sgt. Orlando E. Hutton, above. Hutton, a native of Barnard, Vt., is with the 85th Tank Battalion at Indiantown Gap, Pa. He saw service in both World Wars and a full year in Korea. The fighting sergeant's aim is to return to the Korean battlefield. (U. S. Army photo from NEA-Acme)

Psychology Scrambled With Marine Eggs

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA—(AP)—The mere mention of dehydrated food seems to have an annoying effect on Marines. But Master Sgt. John H. Riggs mixes a little practical psychology with careful preparation and a dissenting note is rarely sounded about breakfasts served to the First Battalion of the 7th Marines.

The solution: When Marines have fresh eggs on the morning menu, Sergeant saves the shells. The, on succeeding days when the dehydrated eggs are served, the cooks merely scatter the real shells in the trash dump. Pronto, the troops leap to the conclusion that they are having fresh scrambled eggs.

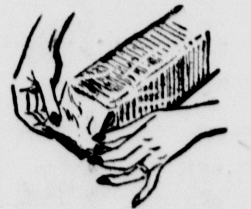

"Sometimes we sprinkle a few shells into the dehydrated eggs to be really sure of the effect," Sergeant Riggs admits.

Band Boosters Open Campaign

Raise Fund To Buy New Instruments

A campaign to sell tickets for a series of concerts to be given during the year by the Gladstone high school band and chorus was started yesterday by the Band Booster Club.

At least three, possibly four concerts are promised ticket holders. The first is to be given sometime the latter part of November. Funds derived from the drive will be placed in a fund for the purchase of band instruments.

The Booster club also decided to entertain band members at a banquet sometime after the first of the year.

No meeting of the club is to be held in November. The next meeting will be held in December at which time Paul Cowen, music supervisor, will be in charge of the program.

Refreshments for the gathering will be in charge of Mrs. Bernard DeHooghe and Mrs. Jack Snouwaert.

City Briefs

Dr. Charles Kee left yesterday afternoon for Chicago. He will return to Gladstone this weekend.

Mrs. Douglas Stowe submitted to major surgery on Saturday at St. Francis hospital.

Mrs. Elmer Lamberg and Miss Irene Larson are leaving Friday night for Chicago where they will spend the weekend with Marian Lamberg, daughter of Mrs. Lamberg and with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyer, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Lamberg.

Mrs. Ida Duquette submitted to an operation on Monday at St. Francis hospital.

Mrs. A. R. Doherty, Rhineland, Wis., is visiting for a few days with Mrs. Shirley Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee and sons Tommy and Jimmy of Norfolk, Va., arrived Monday night with Mrs. Lee's mother, Mrs. Barbara Johnson Byrnes who has been with her for the past six months, to visit at the family home until Monday when the Lee's will leave for Glenwood, Minn., to visit with his people, before going on to Oakland, Calif., to make their home. Mrs. Byrnes will accompany them and make her home out there. Mrs. Lee is the former Marilyn Johnson.

Mrs. Eual White, the former Evelyn Johnson, is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Barbara Byrnes, before leaving for Germany to join her husband who is stationed over there. She will be here for several weeks. Mrs. White will go from here to Albion, Mich., where she will visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Franzen and family.

Another Adult Education Program Being Planned

Another adult education program will be held in Gladstone during the winter months and a survey has been undertaken to learn the degree of interest and in what subjects, Supt. Wallace Cameron announces.

In the past two years, a similar program has been held and the course in furniture repair and upholstery has proven most popular. After the initial announcement, copies of which were sent into homes through school pupils, a questionnaire will be sent into each home where interest is shown.

This questionnaire will list a group of possible subjects to be taught and the request will be made that subjects in which a person is interested be checked.

This will determine whether there is sufficient interest to warrant setting up the course and actual enrollments will follow.

Among the suggested subjects are Furniture Repair and Upholstering; Home Decoration, Fine Arts and Textile Painting; Beginning Spanish; Elementary Typing; Bookkeeping for Small Business; Sewing; Use of Slide Rule; and lectures and Demonstration covering Table Decorations in the Home; Gift Ideas and Wrapping; Cornices and Valances; Care and Repair of Electrical Equipment; Simple Plumbing and Drain Problems; Floral Arrangements; Ideas for Hostesses and Spot Removal.

Any other ideas or suggestions for study courses are invited. The courses will run from 10 to 12 weeks.

Dr. Skellenger Hits 262 On 8 Straight Strikes, 2 Spares

Dr. Byron H. (Bob) Skellenger made bowling history for the season Monday evening when rolling with the Bosch Five in the Major League at the Midway alleys he started out with eight straight strikes and finished with two spares for 262, the highest game rolled in any of the Gladstone leagues thus far this season.

The same evening Hubert Bray, bowling with the Rotary team, got ten straight spares in his final game for 179. He finished his second game with six spares and then went out and added ten more for a straight 16.

Briefly Told

Home Art Club—The Home Arts Club will meet at 7:30 on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Holmberg, 1330 Lake shore. The lesson on "Christmas Gifts" will be given. Each member is asked to bring paper, pins and scissors for cutting patterns.

Rummage Sale—All Saints Guild will hold a rummage sale on Friday and Saturday at 721½ Delta avenue. All articles donated should be in by tonight.

Special services with Elder Evan Fry, Independence, Mo., preaching are continuing at the Reorganized Latter Day Saint church. Tonight's topic will be "What is Faith?" and Friday evening he will talk on "What is Repentance?" "The Weaving of Authority" will be his Sunday subject and Monday evening he will preach on the topic "He Must Be Born Again."

Luther League Rally Sunday Afternoon

A Luther league rally is to be held at Stephenson Sunday afternoon at 3 (CST) and a delegation from the First Lutheran church, Gladstone, will be in attendance. Principal speaker is to be the Rev. Berner Granquist of Iron Mountain.

Family Reunion

Members of the family of Mrs. Barbara Johnson Byrnes gathered at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Franzen, Albion, Mich., on Sunday where they held a family reunion. This is the first time in fifteen years they have all been together. Those present were Mrs. Byrnes' three daughters, two sons, their wives and husbands and five grandchildren.

The first of 11 huge stone heads uncovered in Southern Mexico was discovered in 1858 by a native workman.

Gulliver Youth Prisoner Of War

Parents Receive Mail From Him Wednesday

Lawrence Heminger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heminger, Star route, Gulliver, is a prisoner of war in North Korea.

Word to that effect was received by the boy's parents Wednesday. It was in the form of a letter written in pencil on cheap paper by Lawrence himself.

The letter dated August 5, 1951, stated that he was in P.O.W. Camp No. 3 in North Korea and was receiving good treatment at the hands of the enemy. He said he gets three meals a day, the food is good, with pork once or twice a week, potatoes as a side dish and sugar once in a while. Commenting on the situation, Lawrence says, "The Chinese people are good to us. They don't treat us like prisoners of war. They say we aren't to blame. Don't worry about me. I'm all right and I'm sure I'll be home soon. The people back home are doing a swell job."

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. A. Barnum, of Detroit, are visiting this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hewitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ranguette, North Cedar street, visited over the weekend at the Ernest Tatrow home, in Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olson, Park avenue, have returned after spending two weeks in Lansing and Detroit visiting with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murphy, North Fifth street, visited over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tatrow in Garden.

"SEEING-EYE" FOR DOG — There are thousands of dogs who serve as "eyes" for blind persons, but "Barney," a 16-year-old blind and deaf cocker spaniel at St. Petersburg, Fla., may be the first dog to have his own "seeing-eye" animal. Barney's friend and constant companion is the four-year-old chimpanzee named Joan, seen above relaxing with her charge.

Mrs. H. Lanier To Head Girl Scout Leaders

Mrs. Helen Lanier was elected chairman of the Manistique Girl Scout Leaders' association at the October meeting held Monday afternoon in the Lakeside kindergarten.

Other officers named were Mrs. Charles W. Atwater, vice chairman; Mrs. John D. Scherer, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Durward LaVance and Mrs. Richard Wilkie, representatives of the Council.

The members decided to hold regular meetings on the second Wednesday of the month at 8:00 p. m. Leaders are asked to bring completed registration forms and the record sheets of girls who have left the troop to the November meeting.

Mrs. John C. Hanson, local Commissioner, gave instructions to those present regarding the registration blanks and spoke of the coming Boy and Girl Scout Finance Drive the week of October 28 to November 3rd, or Girl Scout Week.

The fall money making project for all Girl Scout troops is the sale of Girl Scout Calendars. This sale is now in progress and it is hoped that each home in the city will have one in as much as they show very clearly the different phases of Scouting. There is no contest in connection with the sale but each troop will receive 8c for each calendar sold.

Plan Yuletide Party Dec. 8

Unions And Business Hosts To Children

A Christmas party, with a visit from Santa Claus, candy for the children and many other innovations to make the youngsters happy and bring the Yuletide spirit to Manistique, will again usher in Manistique's holiday season.

The party will follow the pattern of last year's Christmas, but many innovations will be added with the expectation on the part of the sponsors that it will outdo last year's event.

Preliminary plans for the party were drawn up by a meeting of representatives of the different unions in the city along with other sponsoring organizations at the Top O' Lake Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday evening.

Many Sponsors

Representatives of sponsoring groups present were Fred Heitman, acting chamber of commerce secretary; Mrs. A. W. Heitman, Mrs. E. T. Lundstrom and Mrs. James McLaughlin, women's groups; Clarence Peterson, International Pulp, Sulphite and Papermakers union; Charles Burley, International Steel Workers union; C. E. J. Doyle, national guard; Walter Nelson, chairman of the area development committee; retail division of the chamber of commerce; Earl LaBrasseur, Papermakers union and D. M. Creeger, businessmen.

Date Set For Dec. 8

It was decided to stage the party on Saturday, December 8 at the old high school gymnasium. The budget for this function was tentatively set at $1,000 to be made up of contributions from local unions, business firms and industries. This is double the amount set for last year's party when 1,641 bags of candy were distributed.

George Dorman was named chairman of a soliciting committee and will be assisted by Capt. Doyle and Clarence Peterson. He will call a meeting of union representatives and others to plan the fund raising campaign. Earl LaBrasseur heads a committee to arrange for the gymnasium and procuring the candy, gifts and coroners. He will also get in touch with Santa Claus and see that he is looking his best. Assisting LaBrasseur will be Mrs. Heitman, Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Lundstrom.

Additional meetings will be called in the near future as plans progress.

Social

Cook Out

The Girl Scout Intermediate troop No. 5 met Wednesday afternoon at the Riverside park for a cook out.

During the afternoon and evening games were played and the girls cooked their supper outdoors.

At the close of the session each girl was given calendars to sell.

The troop leaders are Miss Irene Karosti and Miss Helen Alfredson.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Nelson, North Fifth street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn, to Cpl. Kenneth Thorrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thorrell, Garden avenue. Cpl. Thorrell is stationed at Fort Eustis, Va. No date has been set for the wedding.

Norbert Barker Body Being Sent Home For Burial

The body of Corp. Norbert Barker son of Mr. and Mrs. William Barker, who lost his life in Korea is on its way home for burial. Word to that effect was received by Mrs. Barker Wednesday noon. Mrs. Barker also was advised to await word from the chaplain of Norbert's company concerning information about how the boy met his death and details about when the body would arrive.

The message came shortly after completion of a memorial requiem high mass for Norbert at the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church.

City Briefs

George Schweikert, Dr. A. J. Radgens, Frank LeMaire, Malcolm Nelson, and Neil Reese, have returned from a few days of pheasant hunting near Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Lake street, are the parents of a daughter, born October 6 at the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Connie Graphos

Church School To Note
Golden Jubilee Sunday

The golden jubilee of the parish school of St. Francis de Sales Catholic church in Manistique will be observed next Sunday. On the same occasion, the Rev. Thomas L. Noa, Ph.D., D.D., bishop of Marquette, will officiate at the Sacrament of Confirmation for a class of 135 young people and adults.

The address on the occasion will be given by the Very Rev. Nolan McKevitt, rector of the Cathedral at Marquette.

Ceremonies in Afternoon

The ceremonies will begin at four o'clock in the afternoon when the procession will leave the school to enter the church. The music will be supplied by the combined senior and junior choirs under the direction of Ferd Gorsche, with Miss Geraldine Gorsche at the organ.

Bishop Noa will be assisted at the altar by Very Rev. M. B. Melican, of St. Patrick's church, Escanaba, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Sromovsky, O. Praem., both former pupils of St. Francis de Sales school. About fifty members of the clergy are expected to participate in the jubilee celebration. Following the ceremonies a banquet will be served the visiting clergy in the social rooms of the school by the St. Anne Altar society. Mrs. Carl Makel is general chairman of the event.

School Launched in 1901

The present school building, built in 1914, was preceded by two wooden structures. It was in 1901 that the Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity, of Manitowoc, Wis., came to take charge of the education of the children of the parish. Rev. James Kunes was pastor at the time. The Mother General of the order, Rev. Mother M. Edna, of the Holy Family convent, Manitowoc, will be present with a large number of visiting Sisters from other states who were, at one time or another, on the local faculty.

Those who are to receive the sacrament of confirmation and their sponsors are to meet Saturday at 8 p. m. in the church for a rehearsal of the ceremony.

To Be Confirmed

The following young people of St. Francis de Sales church will be confirmed Sunday:

Dawn Ayotte, Philip Anderson, Gail Archambeau, Patricia Burris, Orville Belanger, Teresa Bosanoc, Dennis Boyd, James Becks, James Bellville, Marietta Binder, James Braeger, Charles Bennett, Jack Bunker, James Cook, Edward Charron, Betty DeMers, Arlene DeMers, Laurelee Dunklee, Kenneth Dixner.

W. S. Crowe is in San Diego, Calif., being summoned there by word of the death of his sister, Mrs. Mae Homer, resident of that city on Wednesday, a week ago. Mr. Crowe made the trip to Chicago by train and went by plane the rest of the way.

Mrs. Homer was well known in Manistique, having visited here on many occasions and having spent her entire summer here a few years ago.

Funeral services and burial were held in San Diego Monday.

The Floyd Barber trophy, which three years ago took the myth out of the Upper Peninsula's annual mythical high school football championship, was under direct fire from a committee of the Upper Peninsula High School Coaches' association this week. . . . The committee passed a recommendation, which will be voted on by the association at its annual meeting Nov. 9-10 in Negaunee, that the controversial trophy be awarded for the Great Lakes Conference championship instead of the U. P. title.

The recommendation came Sunday at a meeting of the planning committee for the coaches' association. . . . Attending the meeting were Allan Ronberg, president of Norway; Omer LaJeunesse, Iron Mountain; Morley Fraser, Newberry; Roman Yachak, Wakefield; Bob Carey, Negaunee; William Millman, L'Anse, and Oscar Wassberg, Negaunee. . . . Announcement of the committee's action was made Monday by Ronberg at a meeting of the Monday Night Quarterback club in Iron Mountain.

Ronberg said the committee felt the Barber trophy would serve a better purpose if it were used as a Great Lakes Conference trophy. . . . The committee, he added, was in agreement that due to schedule circumstances it was impossible to name a true Upper Peninsula champion, with all feelings as the result. . . . As a Great Lakes trophy, Ronberg said, the trophy would serve its purpose—naming a champion by actual test and rightfully honoring the memory of a member of the Soo championship team of 1913 after whom the trophy was named.

The Barber trophy came into being three years ago and was handed to the Upper Peninsula Sports Writers association to be voted to the U. P. grid champions. . . . It has been a controversial matter ever since. . . . The first year it was voted to Stambaugh, only undefeated, untied team in the Peninsula. . . . But only after a heated battle of ballots among the sports writers, with Newberry receiving strong support. . . . The Indians were unbeaten in 1949 but had a tie with Marquette.

Last year the controversy reached a climax when Iron River, Newberry and Menominee finished the season undefeated and untied in U. P. competition. . . . The sports writers balloted four times before awarding the trophy to Menominee. . . . Iron River led on the first two ballots with Newberry and Menominee tied. . . . Newberry was eliminated on the third ballot and on the fourth Menominee polled more votes than Iron River.

This year Stambaugh, Menominee and Newberry are undefeated and are likely to remain that way when the season closes. . . . Already the battle lines are forming in the U. P. . . . The Sports Writers association meeting is slated this year in Menominee on Nov. 3, first Saturday after the close of the season. . . . That's a week before the coaches meet. . . . The sports writers last year drew up a list of qualifications regarding schedule and competition which will be used in considering the U. P. championship contenders. . . . Since last year we've heard some very intelligent comments from school people condemning the Barber trophy and its effect on high school football competition as such.

U. P. Football Season Nearing End Of Trail

Escanaba's inter-state venture Saturday night against Marinette is one of the top weekend attractions in Upper Peninsula football as the season draws near a close for 1951.

The Eskymo-Marine kickoff is set for 8:15 (Escanaba time). Reserved tickets are available at the high school activities office here. Once-beaten Iron River travels to Iron Mountain in the top game on the Menominee Range, Marquette's Emeralds invade Marquette in the Great Lakes and St. Joe of Escanaba entertains Munising in feature attractions.

In the undefeated circles, Menominee plays host to the "Soo Blue Devils." The defending U. P. champions will be facing a team that has won only one game this season. It will be the final U. P. showing for Menominee which closes the season against Marinette.

Stambaugh takes on Ishpeming (4-2) and Stephenson risks its unbeaten string at Gladstone. Newberry engages the Soo, Ontario, Collegiate Institute Wildcats.

Following are the standings, results and coming games in the U. P.:

Pete Praised

St. Joe Back Lauded By Stambaugh Coach

By WILLARD ANDERSON
Head Football Coach, Stambaugh High School; Member, Free Press All-State Grid Board

Most great football teams, whether in the high school, collegiate or professional field, have somewhere in their ranks a "make-chance guy."

Such a player is more than a leader. He possesses the ability to come up with a key play or tackle or produces a laugh which relieves mounting tension on his teammates when the going gets the r. ghest.

His teammates require confidence in his leadership.

Just such a player is Pete Kutches, brilliant senior halfback at St. Joseph. Coach Tom St. Germain, of St. Joseph, tells me that Kutches made the varsity when he first reported as a ninth grader.

Pete operates from the left-halfback position. In addition to carrying the ball, he does his team's punting and passing, backs up the line on defense and kicks the points after touchdowns.

Allan Ronberg, coach at Norway High, rates Pete the best back he has seen all season.

Ronberg watched Pete run his club one night recently. Kutches threw two touchdown passes and rummaged over the Norway goal line for two others in a 24-20 victory.

His amazing performance in this game saw him complete 11 of 15 passes and pile up 179 yards rushing.

In a previous game against Lourdes, Kutches accumulated 214 yards rushing.

But standing out above this great natural ability was the manner in which he sized up play situations, organized his team's defense and ran his club on offense.

Ironwood's Buck Strom, All-Upper Peninsula center last fall, has got a fight on his hands to retain those laurels this fall.

His competitor is Newberry's Jim Anderson who played a whale of a game as offensive center for the Indians and switches over to end on defense. Jim specializes in blocking punts. He blocked three against Gladstone and has six to his credit this season.

Tackle John Ganga, a 200-pounder, played a terrific game as Iron Mountain team lost to Menominee 13 to 6. Friend and foe alike are still talking about the one-man defensive show put on by Lovell Lepisto, of Starbuck, in our 6-0 victory over Iron River.

From San Diego of the Pacific Coast league, the club obtained Stuart Locklin, of Appleton, Wis., who hit .267 in 71 games with the Padres.

The other player is Eulas Hutson, 24, whose 114 runs batted in for Wilkes-Barre led the Eastern league last season. Hutson, who throws and bats right handed, hit .299, socked 21 homers and was chosen the league's most valuable player.

yards in Mustangs' conquest of Notre Dame.

Skyline—Bob Pyne, Montana halfback who gained 206 yards against Idaho.

Missouri Valley — Halfback Johnny Bright, Drake. He has gained 807 yards rushing and 1,274 total in five games.

Border—Aubrey (Red) Phillips, Texas Tech's 205-pound offensive center and defensive line-backer. Played 50 minutes against Texas Christian.

Pacific Coast (Southern Section)—Bill McColl, Stanford end. His pass catching turned the tide to Stanford's 21-7 victory over UCLA.

Pacific Coast (Northern Section)—Johnny Olszewski, California fullback, who set an individual California ground gaining record of 269 yards in leading way to 42-35 victory over Washington State.

Southeastern—None.

Martinac Lost For Remainder Of Season

Coach Tom St. Germain announced today that Fullback John Martinac has been lost to the Trojan football squad for the remainder of the season.

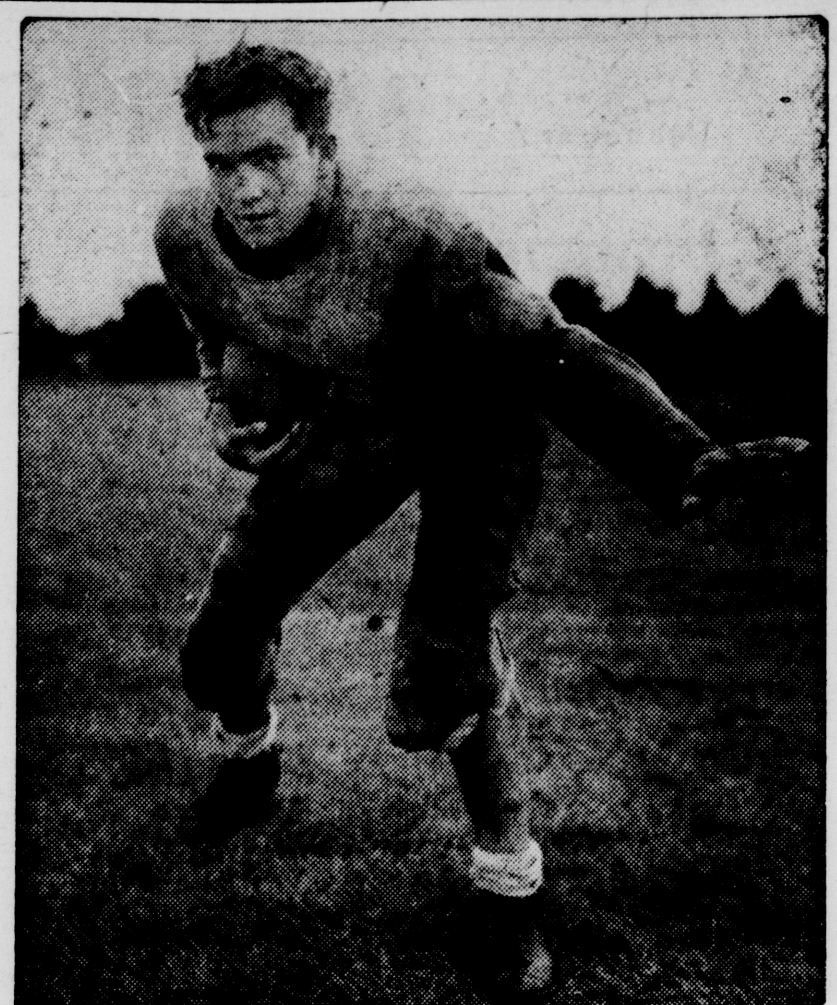

Martinac has been bothered with charleyhorses almost from the beginning of the year and the muscle injury will keep him sidelined, the Trojan coach said. Dan Marsicek will replace Martinac in the starting lineup.

Mrs. Stengel Wants Casey To Continue

LOS ANGELES—(P)—If Mrs. Casey Stengel has her way, the manager of the New York Yankees will stay in baseball next year and try to make it four world championships in a row.

"Casey hasn't conferred with the Yankee officials yet about his future plans," Mrs. Stengel said yesterday in an interview, "but I feel he wants to continue in baseball and this is the first time I agree with him."

"For the last 10 years I've urged Casey, even threatened him, to quit baseball. He has everything he wants and baseball can never bring him the financial satisfaction he can realize in other, less demanding fields. But now I think he owes it to baseball to go on. Baseball needs him more than I do."

RUGGED FULLBACK—Escanaba's Cap Bartley is leading his Eskymo grid team in points and yardage. A workhorse from the fullback position, Bartley has blasted over for seven touchdowns this season. A hard driver, Bartley piles up most of his yardage through the line and sheer determination marks his headlong plunges as he consistently digs for extra yards after being hit. Bartley is a senior. ## Find Satchel Paige Of Gridiron

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Everyone is familiar with the phrase that "life begins at—," but here's a man who is again beginning, at the age of 40, to play college football.

He is Bush Manson, a tall, lean, 180-pound Negro, and he stoutly denies—well, he denies that he is older.

Forty is quite enough, this father of three youngsters implies as he barges into daily scrimmage with the Los Angeles State college team.

Bush undoubtedly is the oldest football player on the youngest team in the nation this year. Los Angeles State launched its first season of the sport this fall.

Things were pretty sparse for the new coach, Bud Adams, when practice began, and when Manson showed up one day and asked if he could try out, Adams gave prompt approval.

"Might as well tell you," he told Adams, "I'm kinda old."

Adams said he was a bit surprised when he heard Bush's age, but things being what they were, it was all right with him. Fact is, the coach whispered, he heard later that when Bush was playing sandlot football he gave his age as 40. And that was eight years ago.

He liked to play "touchball" on the playgrounds, too, and one of his opponents was Bush Manson, jr., now 12. Bush says he's going to be a fine player.

At Los Angeles State, Bush plays defensive guard and tackle. He missed the first three games this fall—State lost 'em—but is due to play against Occidental this week. "Yea, I want to see how much I got left in me," he mused.

Aside from football, Bush still runs his household and works nights at a wholesale produce company. He works 40 hours a week, in fact, in addition to all his football and school duties.

Bush said he was born in Owensboro, Ky., and played high school ball there. Then he moved to Cincinnati and eventually landed out here. He's aiming at a physical education teaching and coaching career.

How does he stand up against kids half his age?

A rival tackle, Jack Guedalia, who is only 19, supplied the answer. "I feel worse'n he does after this stuff."

Bark River Homecoming Set Tomorrow Afternoon Against John D. Pierce

BARK RIVER — Coach Paul Wiinikainen's Broncos will be host to John D. Pierce of Marquette in a homecoming clash here Friday afternoon at 1:45.

Injuries will handicap the Broncos as they seek their fifth win in six starts under New Coach Wiinikainen. Florian Bartoszek, right half, is not expected to see much action against Pierce. Starting in his place will be George Cavades.

The two front line tackles, Dick Shepherd and Louis Dubord, also came out of Bark River's 32-13 win over Florence last Saturday with injuries and may see limited action tomorrow.

Janet Good Queen

Homecoming Queen Janet Good, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Good of Harris, will be crowned at halftime ceremonies by Allan Schoen, Bronco captain.

In the Queen's court will be Pat Swift, Laverne Flynn, Lilly Mae Dumas, Arlene Bugay, Betty Lessard, Gay Nelle McInnes, Anna Mae Kane and Nancy Flynn.

A Homecoming dance will be held at the Bark River Community Center Friday night, with the Queen and her Court reigning. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 with the Wells Trio furnishing the music.

Game officials will be Ken Gunderman, Ted Baldwin and Red Williams, all of Escanaba.

Ruel Takes Over Tiger Farm Clubs

DETROIT — (P)—Herold (Muddy) Ruel, a shrewd baseball veteran, will take over the task of finding young players to replace aging Detroit Tiger stars.

The one-time major league catcher, coach, manager and assistant to former baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler, yesterday was named farm director of the Detroit Baseball club.

He replaces Ray Kennedy, who announced Tuesday that he had been "fired." Ruel quit only last Sunday as farm director of the Cleveland Indians. There were reports then that he would come to Detroit.

The announcement of his appointment, however, was made yesterday by Tiger General Manager Charles Gehringer.

The firing of Kennedy was the third shakeup in the Tiger front office personnel since July 27. Gehringer replaced Bill Evans as general manager on July 28, and Charles Martin later succeeded Clair J. Berry as club travelling secretary.

38 All-America Candidates

NEW YORK — (P)—The 1951 Associated Press All-America football squad, from which the first and second teams will be chosen at the end of the season, grew to 38 today with the selection of 18 more players by the A. P. All-America board.

Topping this week's group of nominees are Bob Ward, Maryland guard, selected as the A. P. lineman of the week, and Fred Beners, Southern Methodist, and Bobby Dillon, Texas, named the A. P. backs of the week.

Then there is Johnny Olszewski, California fullback, whose feat of gaining 269 yards against Washington State helped the Bears to No. 1 ranking in the A. P. team poll, and Dick Kazmeier, Princeton's stellar back whose fine work against Pennsylvania, helped keep Princeton unbeaten.

Bright Nominated

Aubrey "Red" Phillips, 205-pound center who sparked Texas Tech to an upset victory over Texas Christian, and Drake's famed runner, Johnny Bright, were nominated from the border and Missouri Valley conferences.

Here are this week's nominations, by sections, offensive and defensive:

Offense

Eastern—Dick Kazmeier, Princeton back. Set up one touch-down and passed for another in 13-7 victory over Pennsylvania.

Southern—Gil Bocetti, Washington and Lee's T-formation quarterback. He passed for two touchdowns, handed off two more in 44-14 conquest of Virginia.

Big Seven—Ralph Curtis, "inside man" in Colorado's single wing formation. He scored three touchdowns against Missouri.

Passer Beners

Southwest—Fred Beners, Southern Methodist back. Completed 22 out of 42 passes for 337 yards in Mustangs' conquest of Notre Dame.

Skyline—Bob Pyne, Montana halfback who gained 206 yards against Idaho.

Missouri Valley — Halfback Johnny Bright, Drake. He has gained 807 yards rushing and 1,274 total in five games.

Border—Aubrey (Red) Phillips, Texas Tech's 205-pound offensive center and defensive line-backer. Played 50 minutes against Texas Christian.

Pacific Coast (Northern Section)—Johnny Olszewski, California fullback, who set an individual California ground gaining record of 269 yards in leading way to 42-35 victory over Washington State.

Southeastern—None.

Illinois Back

Western Conference — Johnny Karras, Illinois back. He scored two touchdowns against Syracuse and picked up 76 yards in 15 tries.

Defense

Pacific Coast—Les Richter, California guard.

Missouri Valley—Jim Prewett, Tulsa tackle. His recovery of a Houston fumble set up first Tulsa touchdown in rout of Houston.

Skyline—Jim David, Colorado Aggies end, who was outstanding on both defense and offense in defeat of Wyoming.

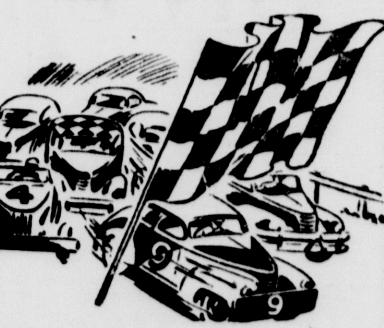

Western—Roger Zatkoff, consistent Michigan back whose recovery of Indiana fumble and fine line backing helped Wolverines to first victory of season.

It became a brother setup only recently when Gerard Nollen was appointed by Treasury Secretary Snyder to fill a vacancy. Dr. John Nollen has been serving as a co-chairman since 1941.

And for no explainable reason city women have increased their birth rates four times as much as

About the only persons worried about this baby boom are the country's educators. The World War II crop of babies hit school last year and they will be swamping the school systems from now on.
